

Nomination Form Directions

Do you know a Virginian who changed the way others think? Would you like to encourage students to learn more about positive African American and women role models from Virginia's past? This is your opportunity to tell us about Virginia's outstanding citizens, past and present.

Each year the Library of Virginia brings you the African American Trailblazers in Virginia History poster for African American History Month and the Virginia Women in History poster for Women's History Month. We use these occasions to honor men and women who have made significant contributions to Virginia's history and culture. We hope your class will join us in recognizing people who have made a difference by nominating an outstanding African American or woman from Virginia. We are offering an award for the school and teacher submitting a successful nomination for the 2013 African American Trailblazers in Virginia History poster or the Virginia Women in History poster. If your class's nominee is chosen, the nominating teacher will be eligible to receive $250 toward school supplies or instructional materials, along with a complimentary three-volume set of the Dictionary of Virginia Biography (a $150 value) for the school library. The teacher will also be recognized at the 2013 Trailblazers or Women in History reception. This is your chance to let your students be historians and participate in the commemoration of worthy accomplishments.

To enter, complete and submit the nomination form. If your class creates posters, presentations, or any other type of project, we would love to see the results as well. You can include originals or photographs of your students' work. We enjoy seeing history in action.

Where do you start? Think about people who have made a major difference in your community, the state, or their professions. Look for people who have—or who should have—made it into the history books. Please note that past honorees are ineligible for repeated recognition, so double-check the list of previous honorees before getting started. If you would like more ideas, try the lists of African Americans and women included in the Dictionary of Virginia Biography, available at: www.lva.virginia.gov/dvb.

Let your class be a part of history in the making.

Nomination Form

2013 African American Trailblazers and Virginia Women in History

By making a nomination, you are helping the Library of Virginia honor people who have shaped Virginia history. On this form, please tell us whom you would like to nominate and why that person is important. To enter, complete and submit this nomination form. You may attach further information about your nominee or include originals or copies of posters, presentations, or any other type of projects your students may have created during the nomination process. If your nominee is chosen, the nominating teacher will be eligible to receive $250 toward school supplies, along with a complimentary three-volume set of the Dictionary of Virginia Biography for the school library. In addition, the teacher and class will be recognized when the Library of Virginia celebrates African American History Month or Women's History Month in 2013.
