

WEB DEVELOPER

Position Overview

The Library of Virginia is seeking a creative and experienced Web Developer to work both independently and as part of a team on the ever-expanding online presence of the commonwealth's archival and cultural heritage home. The person selected for this position will have a passion for engaging diverse user groups in new and exciting ways and play a key role in the on-going development of the Library's web sites, blogs, open source tools, and related applications. In addition to site management and development, additional responsibilities include database integration, technical and customer support, statistical tracking and evaluation, and site optimization. The core responsibilities of this position include web development, serving as Webmaster, customer service, and project management. Ideal candidates will have substantial experience with web design and related software applications and considerable experience working on multiple projects simultaneously.

Our Location:

800 East Broad St.
Richmond, VA 23219

The Library of Virginia

The Library was founded in 1823 to preserve and provide access to Virginia's incomparable manuscript and printed holdings, 122 million & 3 million respectively. Our collection, which has grown steadily through the years, is the most comprehensive resource in the world for the study of Virginia history, culture, and government.

Our Main Building

As the Commonwealth's library and archives, the Library of Virginia is a trusted educational institution. We acquire, preserve, and promote access to unique collections of Virginia's history and culture and advance the development of library and records management services statewide.
