To Virginia Public Library Trustees:

The Library of Virginia recognizes the important role that public library trustees play in the development and improvement of library service in the commonwealth. More than 750 Virginians serve on the boards of our public libraries. Your commitment to providing access to high-quality library services for every Virginia resident is greatly valued.

Significant change has marked the years since The Virginia Public Library Trustee Handbook was published in 1999. New programs, amended laws, and advances in technology continue to affect the role of the public library and thus impact the trustee’s responsibilities. The Handbook was written and compiled to help public library trustees carry out their responsibilities. It has been completely reviewed and updated (and in some cases newly written) to reflect changes since the last edition.

It is my hope that this Handbook will be helpful to you in order to understand better the important roles and responsibilities of public library trustees.

Nolan T. Yelich
Librarian of Virginia
The Library of Virginia wishes to express deep appreciation to all who assisted in the preparation of the Handbook.

As in the earlier edition of the Handbook, many other trustee handbooks from other states were consulted in the preparation of the Handbook. For this edition, we would like to give a special note of thanks to the authors of the publications from Illinois, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Nebraska.

The cooperation and assistance of all the staff members of the Library Development and Networking Division of the Library of Virginia has been invaluable. Significant contributions were made by Carol Adams, Paranita Carpenter, Elizabeth Lewis, Kendra Morgan, Pat Muller, and Nelson Worley.

We would also like to thank Jan Hathcock, Public Relations Coordinator, for her valuable contributions, and Ann Henderson and Emily Salmon, Copy Editors, for their editorial assistance, as well as Amy Winegardner, Graphic Designer, Mary Clark, Government Documents Program Director, and Rose Schooff, Webmaster.

Revised by Wayne Modlin.
INTRODUCTION

It has been six years since the Virginia Public Library Trustee Handbook was published. During this period there have been many changes in the commonwealth’s community of public libraries: new and revised legislation, the establishment of libraries in unserved areas, intensified focus on networking and cooperation among libraries of all types, the issue of finding a balance between new information sources and traditional services, changes in library personnel, and, of course, many new trustees.

There has also been a perceptible and encouraging recognition that members of library boards of trustees want to gain a better understanding of their roles and responsibilities. Even the smallest library will often have complex issues to deal with, and trustees must have the knowledge and skills necessary to govern the library.

This handbook is designed to give boards of trustees basic information on the structure of library service in Virginia, with emphasis on their major areas of responsibility. It is intended to serve as a resource and guide to helping all trustees carry out their duties responsibly. Although it is written primarily for governing boards, it may be useful for advisory boards, Friends of the Library, elected officials, and library staffs as well.

We hope that the Handbook will answer questions for both new and experienced trustees and that it will stimulate discussion, further inquiry, and a renewed enthusiasm for the rewarding task of public library trusteeship.
LIBRARY BOARDS IN VIRGINIA

Public libraries in Virginia are the responsibility of local governments. As organizational entities, libraries fall into four categories:

- regional libraries (a library established by two or more political subdivisions that join in maintaining a library system under the terms of a contract)
- county libraries
- city libraries
- town libraries

The Code of Virginia requires that all regional libraries and all counties, cities, and towns govern their public libraries through boards of trustees, with the exception of “any city or town with a manager, or... any county with a county manager, county executive, urban county manager, or urban county executive form of government, or Chesterfield County.” These excepted counties, cities, or towns may, if they wish, establish either governing or advisory library boards.

The Code also provides the legal framework for counties, cities, and towns that have not established public libraries to appropriate funds for the support and maintenance of library service operated and conducted by a company, society, or association. The boards of these nonprofit, private organizations are appointed by the membership. It is common practice, however, for local governing bodies to appoint one or more members to these boards.

Types of Boards

It is important that library board members and local government officials clearly understand the authority, role, and duties of the library board.

A Governing Board is legally responsible for the control and management of the library and all that happens in it. Broad administrative and policy-making duties are specified in the Code. As of 2005, there are 66 governing boards in Virginia.

An Advisory Board has only those legal responsibilities granted by the local government. The Code of Virginia does not specifically address advisory library boards. The advisory board generally makes recommendations and acts as a liaison between the library, the local government, and the community to promote the library’s services and programs. In reality, the power and authority of an advisory board may fall anywhere along a continuum running from truly advisory to that of an almost-governing board. What the board can or cannot do is determined by the ordinance that established it and the understanding reached over time between the board and the local government. It is important for the board to understand where its authority lies on that continuum. As board members and government officials change over time, it is necessary for both groups to work to maintain such understandings and communicate them clearly. As of 2005, there are 18 advisory boards in Virginia.

BECOMING A TRUSTEE

WHAT IS A LIBRARY BOARD OF TRUSTEES?

The commonwealth of Virginia places the governance of the vast majority of public libraries with citizens of the community, organized as a library board of trustees. As a result of this statutory process, board members are public officials and the powers delegated to them are a public trust.

Library boards have both legal and practical responsibilities. They are responsible for carrying out their legal duties correctly and, consequently, are accountable under law for actions they take.

Also of great importance is the board’s role in representing the total community. As such, the board serves as a vital link between the library and the community, bringing the public’s point of view and the needs of the community to the development of responsive library service. This is equally true whether the board is governing or advisory. The role of board members is seldom easy because of the varied composition of communities—the different interests, concerns, and social and economic levels that must be considered. Reconciling this diversity by representing the total community is the greatest accomplishment to which a board can aspire.

SELECTION AND APPOINTMENT OF TRUSTEES

Most library trustees are appointed by the local governing body or bodies. This process is too important to be left to chance because the future development of the library may well depend on the caliber of trustees who are appointed to serve.

The appointing officials should be informed concerning the qualifications and duties of board members. When vacancies occur, the library board and the library director should be prepared to identify potential trustees who are active, informed, and interested library supporters.

No trustee should serve on the board indefinitely. While it is often helpful to have continuity and experience, it is even more beneficial to have new ideas, fresh approaches, and diverse interests.

Size of the Board

- Not less than five members (Code of Virginia). Five to nine members is recommended.
- The appointing authority determines the number to be appointed. The library board may request that the number be increased or decreased if it seems advisable.
- Regional library contracts should specify the number of members to be appointed from each jurisdiction.
Method of Appointment

Various methods are used in determining how the library board is appointed. In some cases, each member of the governing body will appoint a member from his/her district. In other cases, the members are selected at large. There is usually some effort made to have a geographical representation on the board.

Terms of Appointment

- Initially, board members must serve staggered terms of office in order to provide continuity of service.
- Trustees are appointed for four-year terms.
- Trustees of regional library boards are limited by state law to not more than two consecutive terms but are eligible for reappointment after an interval of one term.
- County, town, and city library boards, as well as boards of nonprofit corporations, are not limited by law as to the number of terms a member may serve. Most libraries, however, follow the practice of not more than two consecutive terms.
- Board members may be removed by the governing body for misconduct or neglect of duty, including poor attendance.

Vacancies

Vacancies for unexpired terms should be filled as soon as possible in the same manner in which members are regularly chosen. In the case of regional libraries, a trustee appointed to fill an unexpired term is eligible to be reappointed the number of terms specified in the bylaws.

Compensation

Members may not receive salaries or compensation other than necessary expenses actually incurred. The Code of Virginia provides an exception to Fairfax County, which may pay members of the library board such compensation as it may deem proper.

Qualifications of Trustees

Each trustee brings to the board certain strengths, skills, talents, and personal experience that uniquely serve the library. The board should represent a broad spectrum of community interests, occupations, and geographic areas. Such diversity assures that the library will serve the total community.
It is impossible to represent all the divergent interests of the service area on the board at the same time, but over a period of years the representation should rotate to include as many segments of the population as possible. A well-balanced board can bring in less-experienced members who will provide new viewpoints.

Competencies necessary to fulfill board duties should also be present in the overall composition of the board. Collectively, the board should strive to have:

- rapport with the entire community
- occupational diversity
- political acumen and influence
- business management/financial experience
- legal knowledge
- diversity in age, race, and sex
- varied personal backgrounds

Appointing authorities and individual candidates should be given a written statement of the duties and responsibilities of membership on the library board. An interested potential board member should not accept if lack of time or other commitments prevent full participation.

Effective trustees are citizens who have:

- interest in the library and the community
- time to devote to board responsibilities
- awareness of the library’s role in the community as a center of information, culture, recreation, and lifelong learning
- knowledge of the community and its diversity
- ability to think and plan creatively, to question objectively, and to carry out plans effectively
- skill in establishing policies for effective and efficient operation of the library
- sound judgment, a sense of fiscal responsibility, and political awareness
- willingness to represent the library at meetings and public functions, good communication skills, and the ability to relate to the public
- interest in working with local, state, and national library leaders and trustees to improve library service on all levels
What Does a Trustee Do?

Your job is:

To Know

- the program and needs of the library in relation to the community
- library services and resources available locally and statewide
- information needs and interests of the community
- services and role of the Library of Virginia
- national and state library trends, standards, and developments
- local, state, and national laws that affect libraries
- local government structure, people, and operation
- how to work effectively in a group
- your duties and responsibilities as a board member
- your fellow board members

To Attend

- board and committee meetings
- conferences of the Virginia Library Association
- Library of Virginia Trustee Workshops
- other regional, state, and national meetings and workshops

To Plan

- goals and objectives of the library
- future growth and priorities of the library
- policies of the library
- community-awareness activities and programs
- orientation for new board members

To Support

- your library and library director
- the community and citizens you represent
- your local governing body
- library legislation
To Act

- to articulate
- to secure adequate and stable funding for the library
- to promote your library whenever called upon
- to make yourself, the board, and the library visible to the community
- to develop good personal relations with representatives of government

To Remember

- The library board acts only as a whole unless it specifically authorizes you to act on behalf of the library.
- The board does not run the operations of the library.
Orientation

New members of the board should be provided with information that will help them feel more comfortable with their duties and responsibilities, give them self-confidence as they begin their job, and get them involved early in their tenure. Trustees are more effective if they know how the library functions and what is expected of them.

There are various ways to conduct the orientation to trusteeship. It may be done informally with the library director and board chair meeting with the new trustee to go over a set list of items, or the orientation program may be conducted at a board meeting. Regardless of the form it takes, the orientation program should be planned step-by-step, and the new trustees should know how the introductory activities will be handled. The responsibility for planning and implementing the orientation is shared by the board chairperson, the members, and the library director.

Orientation sessions should start as soon as possible after the member is appointed. It is desirable to schedule the program, at least in part, before the first board meeting. This will give the new trustee an opportunity to get to know the library director, board members, and staff, and to ask questions about the library and its services.

New trustees should:

Meet with the library director to learn how the library is:

- organized and governed
- funded and budgeted
- operated day-to-day
- structured to serve the needs of the community
- linked to other resources and libraries
- related to board of trustees

Meet with trustee representatives to learn about the board:

- type of board, whether advisory or governed
- organization, officers, and committees
- meeting location, schedule, and operation
- responsibilities and expectations
- goals, long-range plans, and projects in progress
- accomplishments
- relationship to library director

Tour the libraries in the system with the library director and meet staff members.
Orientation Kit and Notebook

In addition to the Virginia Public Library Trustee Handbook, a new board member needs information about the local library to review and consult. A three-ring binder is a very serviceable format for the board’s notebook of continuing activities and reports.

The contents should include:

- list of board members, addresses, and phone numbers
- bylaws of the board, committee responsibilities
- minutes of the previous year’s board meetings
- organizational chart for library, including staff levels, pay scales, etc.
- staff list, including titles, responsibilities, locations
- policies of library board concerning personnel, book selection, collection development, meeting room use, etc.
- long-range development plans
- most recent library annual report, with prior years for comparison
- statistical reports on circulation, services, etc.
- current budget and financial reports
- history of the library and its present goals and objectives
- local laws, charter, and contracts pertaining to the library
- community analyses, such as census figures, as well as demographic, economic, and employment trends
- copies of other current documents concerning the library

Does your library conduct an orientation program for new trustees?

Do YOU need a review session on your responsibilities as a trustee?
BOARD ORGANIZATION

BYLAWS

All library boards need to assure continuity and consistency for their legal, financial, and policy-making activities. Written bylaws are accepted tools for doing this. Bylaws cover the basic structure under which the board conducts its business. These bylaws should not conflict with any local, state, or federal laws or regulations.

A copy of the bylaws must be on file in the Library Development and Networking Division of the Library of Virginia. Any amendments must be filed with the division immediately upon adoption.

The bylaws should include:

- library name, with headquarters and branches
- mission statement
- constituency served
- governing body
  - library board of trustees: selections, appointments, terms, and officers
  - appointment and duties of standing committees
  - provision for special or ad hoc committees
- meetings
  - what constitutes a quorum
  - time, place, and responsibility for meetings
  - attendance requirements
  - method for calling special meeting
  - order of business
- procedure for amending the bylaws
- parliamentary authority
- date of adoption

Sample bylaws are available upon request from the Library Development and Networking Division, the Library of Virginia.

Are your bylaws up to date?

Are current bylaws on file at the Library of Virginia?
LIBRARY BOARD OFFICERS

Boards grow from different traditions and have different ideas about the type and number of officers they need. The most common pattern includes a chair (sometimes called president), a vice chair, a secretary, and a treasurer.

Roles of the Board Chair

- Planner. The chair works with the director to plan the meeting agenda and the manner in which the meeting will be conducted. The chair keeps an overall view of the board year and ensures that the board is completing duties mandated by board policy or law.

- President/Facilitator. The chair must ensure adherence to the agenda and completion of items on the agenda. The chair must also ensure fair participation for all board members and fair exposure to all sides of an issue. The chair must keep the meetings moving forward in a professional and timely manner and, finally, move the board to action on the issues.

- Delegator. The chair traditionally has the power to appoint board members and others to committees with board consent. To do this well, the chair must have a clear understanding of each board member’s skills, strengths, and interests so that appropriate assignments can be made. It is also the chair’s responsibility to make sure that committee assignments are clear and to hold the committees accountable to do the job assigned. The chair may be an ex-officio member of a committee.

- Liaison. The chair should be able to communicate board needs to the director, and the director’s needs and concerns to the board. The chair offers personal support and counsel to the director, and serves as a sounding board for the director.

- Team Builder. The board must always function as a team, and it is the duty of the chair to promoted teamwork among board members. It may be necessary for the chair to mediate and counsel fellow board members if the board fails to function as a team on occasion.

Any power exercised by the board chair must be granted first by the full board in policy, or in the commonly accepted and understood practice of the board.

In other words, the board chair does not speak for the board unless the full board has delegated that privilege to the chair.
The Vice Chair of the board traditionally serves as the backup for the board chair. Often the vice chair is assigned additional specific duties, such as chairing a committee, taking charge of board development activities or preparing for special board events.

Treasurer’s duties vary from library to library, but often the treasurer signs checks, and in some instances, serves as chair of the finance committee. In many libraries financial matters such as writing and signing checks, and related accounting functions are handled by the local government, and the treasurer’s position may not exist.

The position of the Secretary also differs from one library to another. In some systems the secretary takes the board minutes; in others the minutes are taken by the director or another staff member. Correspondence on behalf of the board is the responsibility of the secretary in some systems, though it is done by clerical staff at the direction of the library director in others.
BOARD MEETINGS

The frequency of meetings is up to the local board. Library boards typically meet monthly, bimonthly, or quarterly. It is important that meetings be scheduled and structured so that the library's business is transacted in a timely manner and that all board members are included in the decision-making process.

Libraries must adhere to the Virginia Freedom of Information Act (§2.2-3700 Code of Virginia). Trustees and staff should be familiar with its provisions.

Meeting Notices

Boards are required to furnish information as to time and location of public meetings to any citizen of the state who requests the information. It is good practice and highly recommended that board meetings be announced in the local newspaper and that a notice be posted at the location where the meeting will be held.

Open Meetings

All regular and special meetings of the board must be open to the public. Keep in mind that the library belongs to the community; its governance is entrusted to the board of trustees. Citizen awareness of the operations, plans, and problems of the library can be very beneficial.

Executive Meetings

Executive or closed meetings may be held for certain matters. In order to hold an executive meeting an affirmative vote must be recorded in the open meeting, with the motion stating specifically the purpose of the meeting and including a statement in the minutes with reference to the applicable exemption in the Code of Virginia.

No formal action should be taken in a closed meeting. All decisions must be formally adopted when the board reconvenes in open meeting and takes a vote of the members.

The Virginia Freedom of Information Act lists several exemptions to open meetings. The ones of special interest to library boards include:

- discussion or consideration of employment, assignment, appointment, promotion, performance, demotion, salaries, disciplining, or resignation of public officers, appointees, or employees
- discussion or consideration of the condition, acquisition, or use of real property for public purpose, or of the disposition of publicly held property
• the protection of the privacy of individuals in personal matters not related to public business
• consultation with legal counsel and briefings by staff members, consultants, or attorneys, pertaining to actual or potential litigation, or other specific legal matters requiring the provision of legal advice by counsel
• discussion or consideration of tests or examinations or other documents pertaining to any employee or employment seeker’s qualifications or aptitude for employment, retention, or promotion

Meetings by Telephone or Electronic Communication

Virginia law prohibits a public body from conducting a meeting where public business is discussed through telephone, video, electronic, or other communication system where the members are not physically assembled.

Minutes

The Virginia Code requires that minutes be recorded at all public meetings. The minutes must be open for inspection and copying by any citizen of the state and representatives of print and broadcast media, as specified by law.

| Does the board publicize its meetings? |
| Are meetings open to the public? |

GUIDELINES FOR EFFECTIVE BOARD MEETINGS

Before Meetings: The library director and board chair should:

- Plan the meeting carefully: when, where, what, why, who?
- Prepare a preliminary agenda.
- Mail/distribute the preliminary agenda, related reports, statistics, etc., at least 7 days in advance.
- Prepare a final agenda.
- Publish and post public notice of the meeting, giving the final agenda, date, time, and place.

Beginning Meetings: The board chair should:

- Start on time with roll call.
- Introduce visitors and/or new board members.
- Call for the approval of the previous meeting’s minutes.
- Review the agenda, revising the order if necessary.
- Establish time limits.

During Meetings: The board should:

- Focus on issues at hand.
- Follow the agenda and procedures stated in the bylaws.
- Establish action items: who, what, when.

Ending Meetings: The board chair should:

- Review and Summarize the meeting’s progress, decisions, and assignments for the minutes.
- Announce the next meeting and develop preliminary agenda.
- Adjourn the meeting officially.
After Meetings: The library director and board chair should:

- Mail minutes to all board members.
- Make sure that the minutes include the date, time, and place of the meeting, the names of the board members present and absent, the substance of all matters proposed, discussed, or decided, and a record (by individual member) of votes taken, the names of citizens who appeared and the substance of their testimony, and any other information that any board member requests be entered in the minutes. Keep an archival file of board minutes in the library.
- Follow up on action items.
- Begin planning for the next meeting.
Policy making is one of the most important functions of a governing library board. Advisory boards often recommend policies to the city or county governing body. Some advisory boards may be authorized to make policies. Policies are general statements governing library operations, rules, and use. They are vital tools that do much to determine the orderly success of the library and the course of its future development. Policies should be flexible rather than overly rigid, and should be reviewed on a regular basis. It is the governing board of trustees that is responsible for adopting written policies to govern and guide all phases of library operation.

Policies should be tailored to local conditions and should flow from the library’s roles and mission statement. It is the responsibility of the library director to implement board policies through the development of library procedure. When all elements of the process are in place, the library director and staff have direction of the day-to-day operation of the library, and both the public and the staff are assured of consistent treatment in all aspects of library service.

Who Develops Policy?

While only governing boards of trustees usually have the legal responsibility and authority to make policy, experience shows that the process works best when the library director and staff are involved in researching options, drafting policies, and presenting a report, including recommendations to the board. The library’s staff has access to manuals and samples from various communities and can adapt them to the needs of the library.

Organization

All policies should be recorded, compiled, and organized for ready access in a policy manual. A loose-leaf binder provides a useful format because it allows easy revision. The contents of a policy manual are probably best categorized and numbered under some form of topical heading for easy reference. As each new policy or revision is adopted, the policy should be numbered and the date of adoption noted.
What Should You Do If Your Library Does Not Have a Policy Manual?

1. Ask your library director to review all of the board minutes and list all policies (with the date of adoption) and categorize them into topical headings.

2. Bring your document to the board so that the policies can be reviewed for legality, clarity, completeness, and comprehensive.

Distribution

Every trustee should have a copy of the policy manual and be completely familiar with the rationale for each statement. A thorough understanding of all policies is essential in order to adopt new policies or revise existing ones in a knowledgeable manner. Trustees may also be called upon to defend or interpret policies to the public or governing officials.

Copies of the policy manual should also be available in all libraries in the system. The director is responsible for instructing personnel in the rationale of policies so that staff members understand the basis for procedures.

How Are Policies Developed?

Policy development and changes are major decisions affecting established practice and policies. Trustees should allow adequate time for policy consideration. Systematic policy development includes:

1. A statement of the condition or problem, past or present, that requires policy consideration.
2. A statement telling how any policy will contribute to the accomplishment of the library’s mission, goals, and objectives.
3. A statement of all existing policies related to or affected by the policy decision.
4. A listing of policy options available, with an analysis of:
   a) long- and short-range effects of enacting new policy,
   b) potential side effects—good or bad—of passing each policy,
   c) relevant legal ramifications, and
   d) cost in terms of library resources: staff, budget, collections, and buildings.
5. A recommendation from the library director, accompanied by a summary of the corresponding rationale for changes in related policies.

Just remember, policies benefit the library by:

• supporting the library’s mission, goals, and objectives
• guiding the library director and staff in implementation of board judgments
• providing direction and consistency in day-to-day service to community and library operation
• reducing uninformed decision-making and crisis responses to problem situations
• protecting the rights and assuring fair treatment of all patrons and staff members

Once adopted, the policies should have the unqualified support of the entire board.

There are basically two major categories of policies. External Policies govern service to the community, other libraries, agencies, etc., and Internal Policies govern the management of the library system.

Policies are as varied as the many different aspects of library service. Every phase of library operation should be broadly covered by a policy and implemented through library procedures. Local needs and situations will determine the content of both external and internal policies.

Sample policy manuals from other libraries are available from the Library Development and Networking Division of the Library of Virginia.

External Policies

Public Services Policies

Public services policies regulate the availability of library services and resources to the community. These might include:

- eligibility for use and registration, including nonresidents, institutions, and governments
- circulation: loans and renewals
- reservations, overdue, lost, and damaged materials
- fines and fees
- audiovisual services
- interlibrary loan and reciprocal borrowing
- photocopying and copyright
- reference service: scope, depth, and type
- confidentiality of records
- complaints and chain of authority
- programs and special events
- special collections
- exhibits and displays
- outreach services: homebound, institutionalized, handicapped, bookmobile
- rules of conduct for library users
- use of the library’s meeting rooms
- hours of service
- Internet access
Public Relations

The public relations policy defines the purpose and procedures for a public information and public relations program. The policy must be tailored to the local library, but it might include:

- public relations authority and responsibility
- appropriate media
- scope and emphasis
- distribution of printed materials
- participation of staff and trustees

Volunteers

Policies regarding the services and support of individuals and groups for the library program might include:

- role and responsibilities
- recruitment and selection
- duties and any limitations
- Friends groups
- recognition and awards

Cooperation With Libraries and Groups

Policies on cooperation define the sharing of resources and the establishment of networks with other libraries, group, and agencies. Such policies might include:

- need for cooperation
- types of cooperation
- affiliation and reciprocal arrangements
- kinds of libraries, types of groups, and agencies

Relations With Schools

Policies regarding relations with schools specify areas of cooperation and any limitations of services. The policies might include:

- definition of separate functions and objectives
- statements in materials selection, borrowing privileges, and public service policies
- ways of establishing cooperation on local and regional level
Internal Policies

General Management Policies

General management policies provide direction for administrative decisions. These policies generally include:

- organizational authority and responsibility
- budgeting and purchasing
- use of library vehicles and equipment
- inventory and insurance of buildings and contents
- security and emergencies

Physical Facilities Policies

The establishment, use, and maintenance of buildings are delineated in the physical facilities policies. Such policies might include:

- maintenance
- inventory and use of equipment
- site selection criteria for branches and bookmobile stops
- acquisition, ownership
- bulletin boards and distribution of free materials
- handicapped access features/ADA compliance
- disaster/recovery plans

Trustee Policies

The constitution and bylaws of the board of trustees constitute board policy. Specific statements concerning travel expenses and membership in and attendance at professional library organizations should also be added to this section of the policy manual.

Materials Policies

Materials policies should be established to assure that the collection is comprehensive, balanced, and accessible to the public. The policies might include:

- mission and goals
- description of community to be served that includes other community recreational, educational, and informational resources
- responsibility for selection
- criteria for selection and quality of materials
• type and various formats collected: paperbacks, magazines, large-print, microforms, newspapers
• audiovisual collection: videocassettes, videodiscs, audiocassettes, audiobooks, compact discs
• scope and emphasis of the collection
• duplication of materials
• collection development and access statements for children, young adults, and adults
• special collections
• maintenance and evaluation of collection: weeding, damaged materials, disposal, and replacement
• textbooks and materials related to school curricula
• cooperative arrangements, community resources, other arrangements
• confidentiality of library records
• censorship and controversial materials
• citizen complaints and requests for reconsideration
• Library Bill of Rights
• Freedom to Read Statement

Gifts and Special Materials

An established policy on gifts allows the library the option to accept or refuse gifts depending on their value, use, and practicality. The policies might include:

• condition of acceptance of gift materials
• disposition of nonusable gifts
• acceptance of property, paintings, equipment, money, etc.
• denominational literature
• historical materials and writings of local authors
• memorial gifts
• recognition of gifts by the library
Personnel Policies

All personnel policies must comply with the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended in 1972 and 1991, which prohibits discrimination because of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin in any term, condition, or privilege of employment. When a library comes under the direct jurisdiction of a local government, personnel policies are often those of the local government. Minor changes are adopted to reflect the schedule of the library, observance of holidays, and other special considerations. The main points of personnel policy include:

- classification and job descriptions
- organizational chart of responsibility
- salary scales
- hiring and promotions
- performance evaluation
- probationary work period
- benefits available, such as insurance, retirement, workman’s compensation, etc.
- working conditions and hours of work
- vacation, holidays, sick leave, and overtime
- leaves of absence, with or without pay
- training and continuing education
- attendance at professional meetings
- grievance procedures
- disciplinary actions
- resignation and termination

[^1]: These roles and responsibilities are for governing boards. Advisory boards’ roles and responsibilities may be different.
Human relationships determine the inner climate of the library. Every effort should be given to make these relationships cordially cooperative and mutually understanding. Chief among these relationships, because of its effect on the overall library administration, is that between the library board and the library director.

Hiring A New Director

One of the most important functions of the governing board of trustees is the hiring of a competent library director. It may, in fact, be the most important single act undertaken by the board. Trustees should be aware of current practices in the profession, requirements imposed by the Code of Virginia, as well as The Library Board requirements and regulations, the current needs and direction of the library, and competitive professional salaries and benefits.

Preliminary Assessment

As soon as the vacancy is anticipated, the board should meet to formulate a plan of action.

The board should make a realistic appraisal of the situation. The members should decide what qualifications the library requires in a library director and what the library has to offer the director. Offer the best salary possible to secure the services of a qualified person. Consider any added incentives or challenges offered by the job opportunity.

Look at the Current Situation

- What are the current needs of the library?
- What qualifications are needed in the next director?
- What is the reason for the job opening? Is the departing director upward-bound, retiring, or dissatisfied? An exit interview can be very helpful.
- What changes, if any, are necessary to the job description and the qualification statement?

The job description might include:

- areas of responsibility
- specific duties
- initial period of evaluation
- desirable areas of expertise
- minimum qualifications and experience
- to whom the director is responsible
Method of Recruitment

A search committee can be formed from the board. This committee selects a chair and establishes a procedure for the search process.

Items to be addressed might include:

- timetable
- calendar of activities for the candidates
- affirmative action and equal employment opportunity requirements
- financial and staff resources available
- confidentiality and discretion
- record Keeping of committee actions
- unique circumstances associated with the position and community
- method for involving the full board and the staff in the selection process

Advertisement

It is good practice to conduct a search even if there are staff members qualified for the position. The eligible staff members should be encouraged to apply. All should understand that the goal of the search is to select the best-suited person for the job. All applicants should receive consideration and due process in accordance with equal opportunity laws.

The job advertisement is the primary vehicle for publicizing the vacancy and attracting applicants. It should be carefully worded and might contain the following:

- job title
- duties/ responsibilities
- qualifications (including education, experience, and personal characteristics)
- salary range and minimum salary
- fringe benefits (including vacation and retirement)
- request for résumé and references
- date of availability
- organization contact (preferably a specifically named person)
- closing date for applications
- an equal opportunity employer statement
The job advertisement can be distributed to:

- major and local newspapers
- library schools in surrounding states
- the Virginia Library Association Jobline
- national professional journals such as Library Journal, Library Hotline, and American Libraries

Screening

After the closing date for applications, the search committee screens all applicants, deciding between qualified and unqualified applicants. Those candidates who do not meet the requirements established for the position should be notified immediately.

Candidates who satisfy the requirements for the position become part of an official pool of applicants for further consideration. Narrowing this pool to a list of final candidates is perhaps the most difficult part of the search committee’s task. Success of the evaluation process is contingent upon the formulation of an appropriate set of criteria against which all candidates can be rated objectively. After this process is completed, the search committee should be able to agree on three to five candidates to be called for interviews. It is appropriate to send each candidate background information about the library and the community, including the library’s budget and the annual report. Prior to the interviews, a plan outlining the process should be developed:

- Designate one person to handle the planning of the interviews, making contact with the candidates to schedule the interviews.
- Designate one person to conduct interviews with others assisting. Keep the interview team to a reasonable size, usually three to five people.
- Identify what expenses will be paid or reimbursed and notify each candidate to be interviewed.
- Plan the location for the interview, accommodations for the candidate, a tour of the library and community, etc.
- Include an opportunity for the candidates to meet the library staff.
- Allow adequate time for discussion. The interview is a mutual evaluation process. The committee should provide the candidate with a fair, accurate picture of the library, working conditions, and expectations.
- Allow time between interviews to complete evaluation sheets while members' reactions are still fresh.
The Interview

Agree to a standard list of questions to be asked of each candidate. This makes for a smooth interviewing process and helps to assure that only legal questions are asked and that each candidate responds to the same set of questions. The interview is an important step in selecting the best-suited person for the job; proper judgment here can help reduce turnover and organizational problems.

The Library of Virginia can assist trustees in developing the kind of interview questions that focus broadly on the profession as a whole, as well as enhancing the trustees’ views of local needs. One topic that is important to cover with candidates is their vision of library services in the future.

The chair can wrap up the interview process with comments covering the time table for the final selection and the notification procedure.

Final Decision

After all interviews have been completed, the search committee meets to discuss the results and to rank the candidates in order of preference.

References are checked on the first choice. Following this, a recommendation is made to the full board.

Once the library board agrees on a candidate to be the new director, the chair of the library board makes an official offer that includes a written notice of appointment. Such letters of appointment typically cover position title, starting date, salary, moving expenses, fringe benefits, and a deadline for the candidate to respond to the offer (normally two weeks). Upon receipt of written acceptance, publicity of the appointment is usually sent to the local newspapers, to library publications, and to appropriate local officials.

Write all other candidates interviewed, thanking them and informing them of your decision only after acceptance has been received. If the first choice declines or is unavailable, the board can consider the second choice.

After the New Director Arrives

Orient the new director and assist him or her with relocation. Provide help with school and housing information and additional information on the library and the community. A subscription to the local newspaper is a valuable tool to acclimate the new library director.
Welcome the new director. News releases and photographic coverage should be arranged. Personal introductions to staff members, trustees, community representatives, and local government officials should be scheduled promptly. An open house or reception hosted by the board, and assisted by the Friends of the Library, is a standard courtesy.

It is evident that the best libraries have well-treated library directors to administer the libraries guided by trustees.

Relationship Between the Board and the Director

It is critical to the progress of the library that the board and director work together toward common goals in a climate that fosters a free and open exchange of viewpoints. The expectations, roles, and responsibilities of each should be clearly delineated and understood.

In accordance with the library’s written personnel policies, there is generally an initial evaluation period that allows the board and the director time to develop a working relationship. During this time either party may reconsider the arrangement.

A reciprocal relationship will flourish if the board follows these guidelines:

1. Hire with enthusiasm after an appropriate search.
2. Before hiring, be clear about your expectations of the director and your goals for the library.
3. Reveal any special problems the library has.
4. Support the director (new or continuing) in pursuit of goals and objectives decided on in discussions between board and director.
5. Handle problems as they arise. Be patient with the director while sticking to the goal of excellence in library management.
6. Define the roles of the board and the director and stick to the division, but provide mutual support in performance of the roles.
7. Treat the director as a team member and leader of the library, a participant in decision making and the professional advisor and resource.
8. Call for adequate reporting from the director.
9. Encourage the director to be involved in professional activities and give financial support to this participation.
10. Support the director in his or her position as administrator and stay out of the day-to-day operation of the library. Encourage the director to feel free to talk with the board members about problems.
11. Talk about the library in the community, including praise for the director. Introduce the director to the community. Aim for visibility for board, director, and library.
12. Encourage the director to be a futurist—knowing about trends and the projects of others and being allowed to dream about ideas and to try some of them.
13. Maintain a professional relationship with the director. Pass on the good that trustees hear about their libraries. Share the successes.
14. Pay the director an adequate progressive salary, a standard that applies to the staff as well. A contented adequately compensated staff responds well to the direction of the library director and to the desires of the board.

The Board’s Relationship With the Staff

A clear understanding of the relationship between the board and staff members is vital to the smooth operation of the library. Ideally, the relationship will be analogous to that of a corporate board of directors; i.e., it should be one of cordial and friendly interest, but at no time should the board, or an individual board member, intervene between a staff member and the director. The board hires the director to be the expert in management of the library, including the management of all other personnel. Policies governing job specifications, salaries, and other terms of employment are the responsibility of the board; selection and supervision of personnel are part of the director’s administrative duties.

There may be occasions when staff members go around the director and take their concerns and complaints directly to the board or to an individual board member. When this occurs, the staff member should be reminded that the board does not act on complaints from the staff except through a grievance procedure that is board policy. The proper procedure is to discuss the matter with the director. Any other action by overzealous board members will undermine the director’s authority and probably produce the unhappy result of opposing factions and general disorganization within the library.

<thead>
<tr>
<th>The board should not assume direct responsibility for day-to-day supervision of the staff other than overseeing the director.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Board members should not issue orders to the staff or make demands of the staff except through the director.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The board has no direct responsibility for assessing staff performance other than the director’s.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

There are times when it is appropriate for board members to work with staff members. Some examples of when board members may work with staff members are: in committee settings; in the long-range planning process; if requested by the director to make reports at the board meeting; and when planning library social events.

A policy that reflects the relationship between the library board, the library director, and the staff should be adopted, and it should be communicated to the staff so that it is clearly understood.
EVALUATING THE LIBRARY DIRECTOR

Performance appraisal of the library director is an integral part of the evaluation of the library as a whole. It is a continuous process that should be used as a means toward determining the accomplishment of organizational goals and objectives and how well the library is being managed.

A formal evaluation of the director is good management practice and should be done regularly, at least on an annual basis. The evaluation should be based on the job description and/or negotiated objectives agreed on at the time of hiring or soon thereafter. The criteria should be defined specifically, this providing the board with evidence of good management if the objectives are met.

Purposes of the Performance Evaluation

- to provide the director with a clear understanding of the board’s expectations
- to ensure that the director is aware of how well the board’s expectations are being met
- to serve as a formal vehicle of communication between the board and director
- to identify the board’s actual concerns so that appropriate action can be taken
- to document the justification for salary adjustments

Methods of Evaluation

To be effective, the evaluation method and process must be designed to accommodate your specific local situation. Directors can be judged in many ways, but quality of performance is clearly the best measure.

- Has the director managed the operation of the library so as to provide the intended services?
- Has the director managed the staff so that operations are friendly, efficient, and cost-effective?
- Has the director been a leader in making the library an important service in the community?
- Has the director moved forward satisfactorily on achieving the goals and objectives outlined for the library and for the director?
- Has the director provided sufficient information to the board so that it can perform its duties?
- Has the director kept in touch with new trends in library service and relayed these to the staff and board?
These are among the questions boards might use in assessing the director's performance. Any evaluation of the director should be based on how the library is doing. Is there satisfaction in the community? Is there praise for the library? Is there movement towards goals?

The Library Development and Networking Division of the Library of Virginia has examples of director evaluations that may be borrowed.

Developing the Evaluation Process

- Board and director jointly develop a list of factors that lend themselves to objective evaluation.
- Board develops general evaluation method, criteria, rating scale, and form.
- Board and director identify goals, long-range plans, and specific areas that need attention.
- Director prepares a set of objectives with time line.
- Board reviews objectives and suggests changes, if appropriate.
- Board and director negotiate changes in objectives.
- Director and board confirm objectives.
- Director handles implementation of actions to meet objectives, including delegation of tasks to staff.
- Director makes periodic reports to board on progress toward achieving objectives.
- Board and director make revisions to objectives negotiated.
- Board conducts annual formal evaluation review.
- Board provides periodic feedback to director.
- Evaluation process repeated.

Expectations and Evaluation

Directors are accountable to many varied and sometimes conflicting constituencies. The board and the director must recognize these groups and agree on the priority of the demands of each. These constituencies might include:

- elected officials and the appointed governing officer who supervised other local government department heads
- library staff members who have diverse personal expectations for their director
- special interest groups who exert pressure on the director to respond to their concerns
- individual members of the board of trustees who have personal priorities for the library and the director
Good communication, effective public relations, a written plan, and clear policies will all help the board and director to deal with any conflicting expectations.

Remember: If the librarian is having a problem, give timely help—don’t wait for an annual evaluation. Single episodes, slips, or errors should be disposed of when they occur and not held in waiting for an annual criticism.

The board’s performance must also be evaluated as part of this process. Did the board conduct itself well, abide by the board/director divisions of responsibility, set objectives and work toward them, listen to reports, and provide needed assistance throughout the year?

The evaluation should be a constructive process. Most library directors welcome the opportunity to review past performance objectively against established criteria. A good evaluation interview will include both strengths and weaknesses and will help the director be more effective in managing the library.

Dismissal of the Library Director

One of the most difficult situations a board may have to face is the dismissal of the library director. It is an action that should not be taken lightly because it will reflect on the future of the library and on the career of the director.

There is less likelihood of having to take this action if care is taken in the hiring process and the board has a well-developed evaluation procedure in place.

If efforts taken to improve the difficulty are unsuccessful, and the working relationship between the board and the director reaches a point that it is not possible to continue, then dismissal becomes a last resort.

Generally the reasons for discharge are for poor performance or infraction of rules. Both the reasons for dismissal and the procedures to be followed should be stated explicitly in writing and adopted by the board as policy. It is important to avoid vague terms. An appeals procedure should be included to ensure fairness and to protect the director from false charges.

In considering dismissal of the director, the board should ask itself the following questions:

- Has the board acted responsibly?
- Has the board dealt with problems as they arose?
- Has the director received written notification of his or her dismissal and the reasons for dismissal?
- Has the director been given a full hearing?
- Have the charges been listed explicitly?
• Can the board defend its position?
• Does the board need legal advice?
• How will the dismissal be handled with the public?
• Do the policies need to be changed?

The board should understand that its responsibility is to provide the best possible library service. Every effort should be made to ensure that personalities and biases are not leading factors in a decision to replace the director.

Are personnel policies reviewed periodically?

Do you refrain from intervening in matters between the staff and supervisors?

Do the board and director jointly determine the criteria to be used in evaluating the director?

Joint Responsibilities

Observes all local, state, and federal laws that relate to current employment practices.

Provides in-service training for professional development of staff members and effective implementation of policies. Provides opportunity for continuing education and advancement of staff and trustees.

2 These roles and responsibilities are primarily for governing boards. Advisory boards’ roles and responsibilities may be different.
One of the main responsibilities of the governing library board is to obtain adequate funding for the library. In a time of rising costs, coupled with an increased demand for information, the library trustee is challenged to provide adequate funding to meet the informational needs of the local community.

Because libraries must compete with a wide range of other public services for their existence, it is essential that every trustee be informed about the financial needs of the library and committed to work toward increased support where necessary. The trustee must face financial problems realistically and remain constant to the goal of providing quality library services.

The library director and the library board share the responsibility for identifying the library needs of the community and seeking adequate funds.

Library boards should have:

- a thorough knowledge of the various allocating authorities responsible for library funds
- an awareness of supplementary sources of revenue, including state and federal grant programs, endowments, bequests, and private gifts
- a clear understanding of the current financial needs of the library
- a strategic plan for obtaining funds needed to carry out the long-range goals and objectives of the library
- an understanding of the legal regulations and accountability required for library funding
- a willingness to support actively requests for increased funding on the local, state, and national levels

Funding Sources

Public libraries receive funding from a variety of sources: local taxation, grants, gifts, bequests and donations, fund-raising projects, fines and fees, and investments. Library boards must consider it a primary responsibility to keep informed about all sources of funding.
LOCAL GOVERNMENT SUPPORT

In most public libraries in Virginia, funds to operate the library are derived from allocations made by the county, city, or town government under which the library is established. When additional funds are needed, the board must be prepared to justify to local authorities and to the general public the need for such expenditure.

STATE AID

Sections §42.1-46 through §42.1-58 of the Code of Virginia authorize the awarding of grants to provide for the development of library service and to assist libraries in improving standards of service.

The formula for state aid provides for the allocation of grants based on the following factors, effective July 1, 1992:

- Forty cents of state aid for every dollar expended, or to be expended, exclusive of state and federal aid, by the political subdivision or subdivisions operating or participating in the library or system. The grant to any county or city shall not exceed $250,000.

- A per capita grant based on the population of the area served and the number of participating counties or cities: Thirty cents per capita for the first 600,000 persons to a library or system serving one city or county, and an additional ten cents per capita for the first 600,000 persons for each additional city or county served. Libraries or systems serving a population in excess of 600,000 shall receive ten cents per capita for the excess.

- A grant of ten dollars per square mile of area served to every library or library system, and an additional grant of twenty dollars per square mile of area served to every library system serving more than one city or county.

State aid may be used for library materials, equipment, and furniture. Up to 25 percent of the grant may be used for salaries of full-time certified librarians. Libraries serving populations of 13,000 and above, and operating without a full-time certified librarian, receive a 25 percent reduction in their state aid grant.

Library boards should be thoroughly familiar with The Library Board’s Requirements Which Must Be Met In Order to Receive Grants-In-Aid (17 VAC 15-110-10), or the Requirements Which Must Be Met By Libraries Serving a Population of Less Than 5,000 In Order to Receive State Grants-In-Aid (17 VAC 15-90-10). (See Appendices)
Federal Funds

From the 1960s until 1996, the Library Services and Construction Act (P.L. 101-254) provided funds to assist states in the extension and improvement of public library services. In 1996, Congress approved the Library Services and Technology Act (P.L. 104-208) “to stimulate excellence and promote access to learning and information resources in all types of libraries for individuals of all ages; to promote library services that provide all users access to information through state, regional, national, and international electronic networks; to provide linkages among and between libraries and to promote targeted library services to people of diverse geographic, cultural, and socioeconomic backgrounds, to individuals with disabilities, and to people with limited functional literacy or information skills.”

Miscellaneous Sources of Funding

- Gifts and donations: policies should be adopted on the acceptance and handling of these funds.
- Endowments/foundations/trusts: a library’s own endowment, foundation, or trust fund can be established, with the interest used to supplement the tax-based budget or to finance a special project.
- Fines and fees: local policy determines the availability and use of fines and fees.
- Fund-raising projects: a Friends of the Library organization can be beneficial to the library in undertaking fund-raising events for special projects and programs.
- Grants: corporations and foundations are frequently good sources for additional funds. Directories are available that identify local, state, and national sources. These grants are highly competitive and success may depend on the library’s ability to prepare a well-written grant proposal.

Budgeting

A budget is a plan for the expenditure of funds for the next year to carry out the library’s program. The amount of funds available will necessarily dictate the extent to which the library can contribute to its mission. It is imperative that the board of trustees knows what it wants the library to accomplish in the coming year.

Budget Preparation

The preparation of the budget is a cooperative process involving the trustees, the library director, the library staff, and the community. The library director is responsible for the preparation of the budget request; the governing board of trustees is responsible for final approval and adoption of the budget.
The budget is directly related to the library’s planning and the political funding process. Both short-term and long-term parameters will guide the budget building. A budget that merely repeats previous budgets is clearly indicative of lack of planning and is a disservice to the library’s clientele. Good service and good planning will result in an innovative progressive budget. Ample time should be allowed for the development of the budget and for consideration by the local funding authorities. Generally, it takes from six to nine months.

PRESENTING THE BUDGET

Trustees play a key role in securing funds for the library. They must be thoroughly prepared to participate in presenting the budget: to explain, to justify, and to negotiate. The library must be prepared and defended as a basic community and information agency.

The chances for success in securing adequate funding are enhanced if the library has maintained good communications with the local funding authorities throughout the year. It is important that the local officials know how the funds are used and what the library needs.

- Invite officials to special programs, receptions, and library activities.
- Offer personalized library reference service and assistance to local government officials and departments.
- Be sure letters of appreciation, awards, and staff accomplishments are well publicized.
- Enlist the support of the Friends of the Library and the community to promote the library budget.

IMPLEMENTING THE BUDGET

Once the trustees have set their priorities and obtained funding, the library director and staff have the responsibility of implementing the budget.

Trustees must continue to fulfill their fiscal responsibilities, but their role now shifts to maintaining an awareness of budget implementation and adherence to the budget plan. Trustees should not be involved in the day-to-day financial operations of the library, however.

Specific procedures and responsibilities should be outlined in the local policy and procedures manuals so that all trustees and staff understand the lines of authority. The tasks, authority, and duties for library spending must be clearly delegated to the bookkeeper, director, or other staff. Trustees may be asked to contribute specific expertise in fiscal management, but their major role is planning, budgeting, and securing funds.

The library director is responsible for keeping the trustees informed of budget implementation. Trustees should:

Review regularly scheduled financial reports:

- current expenditures
- year-to-date figures
- total budget
- balance of budget
- explanation of major changes
An annual report of expenditures must be filed with each local funding agency and with the Library Development and Networking Division of the Library of Virginia.

Monitor fiscal operations of the library to assure:

- Financial records are complete and accurate.
- Resources are managed in an economical and efficient manner.
- System of internal controls exists to safeguard the assets.
- Accounting methods are accurate.

Joint Responsibilities

Attend budget hearings of funding agencies to answer questions about library growth and administration and to supply facts and figures to defend budget requests.

Explore all methods of increasing the library’s income through new sources and cooperation with other libraries or agencies.

Submit an annual report of activities, income, and expenditures to be filled with each funding body or agency and with the Library Development and Networking Division of the Library of Virginia.

4 These roles and responsibilities are primarily for governing boards. Advisory boards’ roles and responsibilities may be different.
LEGAL RESPONSIBILITIES OF ADVISORY BOARDS

Advisory boards are limited in authority, and consequently in legal responsibility, to those powers granted by the local government.

LEGAL RESPONSIBILITIES OF GOVERNING BOARDS

Public library trustees must know and accept their legal responsibilities as governing agents of the library. Trustees need to be aware of general legal requirements, strive to act within the law, and seek expert assistance as appropriate.

Governing library trustees acquire their position through state law and, as such, are public officials. As with any public official, the appointment carries with it certain basic legal responsibilities:

- maintaining good faith with constituency
- obeying federal, state, and local laws
- accepting office, including all its power and obligations
- showing diligence in the job
- managing property and finances for the constituency served
- making proper choice of library director

As a trustee, you hold a public trust for the citizens and taxpayers of the community served. When you accept this office, you also accept duties and responsibilities. You should understand that your board’s decisions are subject to public scrutiny and to challenge in court. This makes fulfilling the board’s legal duties in a responsible manner of the utmost importance. Review carefully the areas of liability and the guidelines for preserving the public trust.

AREAS OF LIABILITY

- Acts in excess of authority. Boards can be sued if they or their employees make errors when they act outside the scope of their library authority (example: exercising censorship).
- Nonfeasance. Boards can be held liable for failing to act when action was required or failing to stop an illegal action (examples: failure to get copyright clearance for cassette duplication, failure to complete any contract as agreed upon).
- Negligence. Boards can be held liable for the negligence of the administrator, staff, or themselves (examples: unsafe buildings and grounds, failure to supervise funds).
- Intentional tort. Boards can find themselves liable for statements made in haste or for angry actions of another trustee or staff member (examples: libel, assault, improper discharge of an employee).
- Unintentional tort. Boards can be held liable when a member of the board or the staff in good faith accuses a person of committing a crime but is mistaken in judgment or identification.

- Acts in contradiction to the law. Boards can find they are liable for failure to act in compliance with state statutes or administrative rules (examples: purchasing property without bidding, tailoring specifications to a specific bidder, conducting business at meetings that are not open to the public, improper reimbursement to trustees or employees).

Defenses for Liability

Boards can lessen the possibility of liability through the following actions:

- Encourage all trustees to attend board meetings, study the issues, ask questions, vote, monitor progress, and maintain active committees.
- Abide by the time limits of the terms of office for trustees specified in the Virginia Code. Replace trustees who do not participate or attend.
- Keep all library board meetings open to the public as required by the Virginia Freedom of Information Act and make sure advance notice of board meetings is given to the public.
- Read the minutes and make corrections.
- Vote against proposed action if convinced there is insufficient information on which to base an opinion; make sure minutes reflect that vote. When abstaining until more information is provided, follow up on the issue and let the record show that you abstained and the reason.
- Use a qualified attorney for all legal matters and controversial issues.
- Adopt written rules, regulations, and policies and keep them up-to-date. Publicly post rules, regulations, and meeting minutes to avoid any charge that the information is being kept secret.
- Publish minutes in newspapers or the library’s newsletter or post them on a library bulletin board to educate the public and to provide a continuous public record of board actions.
- Adopt rules, regulations, policies, and budgets formally by use of a motion, second, and documentation in board minutes. Hold public hearings as needed.
- Refuse to allow any existence of conflicts of interest on the board. Write a letter of protest for the record if conflicts are occurring. (examples: a trustee of the library being reimbursed as the board’s attorney, investment advisor, banker, insurance consultant, accountant, or purveyor or goods and services that the library buys.) A general rule is that a trustee may not receive any profit whatsoever in dealing with the library.
- Unless local government audits the library, require and obtain a certified public accountant audit once a year.
Indemnification

Although suits brought against library board members are not common occurrences, members are at some risk and should seek to protect themselves. The library board should check with the local governing authority to determine if members are shielded from personal liability. If the board does not have statutory protection, it should investigate other options. Libraries established under the corporate structure will need to determine if individual board members are liable for damage caused by the corporation. Some library boards protect themselves by purchasing director liability insurance for members and employees.

The American Library Trustee Association (ALTA) developed and approved the following indemnification statement:

It should be considered mandatory that every library have an adequate level of insurance coverage. If any claim or action not covered by insurance or state statute is instituted against a trustee, officer, employee or volunteer of the library system arising out of an act or omission by a trustee, officer, employee, or volunteer acting in good faith for a purpose considered to be in the best interest of the system, or if any claim or action not covered by insurance or state statute is instituted against a trustee, officer, employee, or volunteer allegedly arising out of an act or omission occurring within the scope of his or her duties as such a trustee, officer, employee, or volunteer, the system should at the request of the trustee, officer, employee, or volunteer:

a) appear and defend against the claim or action, and
b) pay or indemnify the trustee, officer, employee, or volunteer for a judgment and court costs, based on such claim or action, and
c) pay or indemnify the trustee, officer, employee or volunteer for a compromise or settlement of such claim or action, providing the settlement is approved by the board of trustees.

Decision as to whether the system shall retain its own attorney or reimburse the trustee, officer, employee, or volunteer expenses for their own legal counsel shall rest with the board of trustees and shall be determined by the nature of the claim or action.

The term trustee, officer, employee or volunteer shall include any former trustee, officer, employee or volunteer of the system.

SUMMARY OF LEGAL RESPONSIBILITIES OF GOVERNING BOARDS

Board of Trustees

Seeks cooperation with officials of the governing agency, keeping in mind the special legal obligations of the board.

Attends and participates knowledgeably in all board meetings and decisions to assure conformity with legal responsibilities.

Follows appropriate procedures and laws for budgeting, contracting, hiring, and auditing, etc., and avoids conflict-of-interest situations. Prepares all needed library reports for local government and the Library of Virginia. Provides copies to the board and the community.

Library Directors

Attends board meetings and suggests legal review or counsel on appropriate board actions.

Advises the board on compliance with relevant procedures and laws and potential conflicts of interest.

Joint Responsibilities

Knows, studies, and abides by all local, state, and federal laws that affect public libraries and empower boards of trustees.

Note especially these laws in the Code of Virginia:

- §42.1-33–§42.1-59 (Public Library Laws)
- §2.2-3700–§2.2-3714 (Freedom of Information Act)
- §2.2-4300–§2.2-4377 (Virginia Public Procurement Act)
- §2.2-3800–§2.2-3809 (Privacy Protection Act)
- §42.1-72–§42.1-74.1 (Library Offenses)
- §58.1-601–§58.1-636 (Virginia Retail Sales and Use Tax Act)

5 These roles and responsibilities are primarily for governing boards. Advisory boards’ roles and responsibilities may be different.

6 Ibid.
Planning is the deliberate, preferred manner of preparing for library service in the future. It is the responsible means of fulfilling future community library needs.

A long-range plan, based on knowledge of the community, community expectations, resources of the community, and realistic projections of the future needs of the community will enable the library trustees and administration to perform their responsibilities better by providing efficient and progressive library service.

WHAT IS A PLAN?

- A summary of the current status of the library. Look critically at what the library does now. A plan is reality pushed into the future. By assessing the current situation, obvious needs and directions can be identified. Don’t be afraid to brag about a good library.

- An assessment of community needs. A library’s first responsibility is to address the needs of its community. It is basic planning to know what the community needs are. The American Library Association has developed a number of tools that can help identify useful statistics and statistical sources for understanding a library’s community.

- A statement of the library’s mission, goals, and objectives. Once the library’s overall role and mission are defined, specific goals with measurable objectives can be set. All decisions should be made in view of the plan.

- An ongoing process. Planning is an ongoing process. No plan is perfect. Unexpected events necessitate changes in any plan, and changing times present new problems and suggest new approaches to meeting library goals. Unless some crisis requires immediate updating of the plan, the plan should be updated on an annual basis.

Planning Tools

The American Library Association has several useful planning publications. Among the most important of these are: Planning and Role Setting in Public Libraries and Output Measures for Public Libraries, published in 1987. They have been widely used by Virginia public libraries for strategic planning. An important new publication of the American Library Association was recently (1998) issued in two parts: Planning for Results: A Public Library Transformation Process, which was designed to be a revised and updated edition of Planning and Role Setting.
HOW IS A PLAN DEVELOPED?

There is no one best way to plan. Planning requires commitment, time, and organization.

Preparation for planning requires:

- clarifying planning purposes and methods
- defining responsibilities
- allocating resources to planning
- establishing a planning schedule

Gathering the information for planning requires:

- reviewing community needs for library services including cultural, educational, and informational resources of the community
- looking at the demographic and economic data of the community
- identifying factors in the library’s environment that may affect the provision of services

Analyzing the information allows:

- understanding of the community needs for library service
- realizing objectively what the community has and what the community lacks
- defining the library’s role in the community

Development of a library’s mission, goals, and objectives allows:

- responsiveness to the community’s needs, interests, and priorities
- prioritizing programs and directing efforts toward tasks leading to the attainment of the stated objectives
- evaluation of where your library is in relation to the total plan

Remember that excellence in public library service is not an idle dream.

It is achieved daily by libraries matching library services with community needs, interests, and priorities as identified through effective, thoughtful planning.
Benefits of a Plan

- allows rational justification of your budget with governing authorities
- helps you prioritize programs and direct efforts to attaining objectives
- motivates the staff and board
- encourages coordination and accountability
- gives a clear measure for success
- assures enough lead time to undertake projects effectively
- leads to steady growth by encouraging yearly evaluation

Recipe for a Plan

A plan is a flexible document seasoned by specific local needs. Most plans include the following:

- description of the library’s service area and communities
- summary of data supporting library’s needs
- statement of general goals and specific objectives
- details of services, programs, personnel, collection, and facilities desired
- identification of priorities
- timetable for achieving goals and objectives, both short- and long-range
- cost projections for implementing the Plan
- projections of resources
- assignments and responsibilities for implementing the Plan
- publicity campaign to accompany changes
- provision for evaluation and reassessment at specific intervals

We planned. How are we doing?

The manual Planning for Library Excellence (2000) is an excellent resource for reviewing services and resources.

Does the library have a long-range plan on file at the Library of Virginia?

Is the plan updated annually?

Have procedures been drawn up for evaluating the plan?

Is the responsibility for planning clearly defined?

Are you familiar with and committed to your library’s long-range plan?
Planning Library Buildings

As trustees face the challenges of planning library services for the future, increased space and additional locations may become a major consideration. Governing boards must decide whether to build a new library, renovate or expand current facilities, or find an existing space to be converted into a library. Construction plans should be considered in the context of the total library plan. Trustees need to study service needs, explore alternatives, project funding, and establish priorities.

Most planning processes will lead to the identification of a probable date when new library space should be in operation.

While having a new building may be the best answer, it is not always the most practical and should be measured against other options: purchase of an existing building, lease of an existing building, remodeling of the library, addition to the library, or in some cases, addition of branches. Depending on the library and its services, the addition of a bookmobile or other outreach techniques may be considered in expansion plans.

Building Program

After the library has completed its community analysis, defined its long-term goals and objectives, and determined the need for additional space, a library building program is developed. The building program defines the specific needs of the library in both quantitative and qualitative terms. The building program should bring together the thinking of the library board, the library director, the library staff, and the community on the purpose, scope, and function of the library building program.

The building program should also stress that the building must be flexible and able to respond to future developments. Library functions and spaces should be able to expand and contract as needs develop or diminish. Existing and future technologies should be anticipated. Computerization, miniaturization, electronics, and other factors are already in play and will continue to develop. This has implications for the building’s structure; its heating, ventilating, and air conditioning systems (HVAC); its power, lighting, electronic, and communications systems (PLEC), as well as the ergonomic needs in planning spaces and equipment.

Architect

The architect should be hired only after a library has completed these beginning steps of construction planning. The architect can then use the library building program in designing the building.

Architectural services are covered under professional services in the Virginia Public Procurement Act. Therefore, a Request for Proposal (RFP) is issued for services.
In hiring an architect, the library should solicit applications, rank them by preference, and then enter into negotiations with the top choice, conducting personal interviews with the person or firm that interests the library board. The past experience of the architect should be considered, as well as the architect’s personal philosophy. Final fees should be discussed and agreement reached. If agreement cannot be reached with the first choice, the board then declares that is the case and enters negotiations with the next candidate.

Design of the Building

Once an architect is hired, the actual design of the building can proceed, along with final decisions on location, size, addition, or all new construction, etc. The general steps that will be followed are:

- preparation of schematic design
- preparation of preliminary plans and design development
- preparation of specifications and working drawings
- advertising and receipt of bids for construction
- bonding process
- award of contracts
- actual construction
- acceptance of performance
- move to new building

Planning Responsibilities

Planning for Library Excellence (2000), should be consulted for building-related state standards and guidelines.

Trustees, staff members, consultants, architects, interior designers, city councils, county boards, jurisdictional staffs, regional planning departments, and community members all fit into the picture.

Trustees

- determine that a new building is needed
- provide leadership in the campaign to inform the community and secure necessary support for the project
- appoint a building committee and assign tasks
- select and hire library building consultant if necessary
- select and hire an architect
- obtain financing for the project
- select and purchase the site
• approve the written building program
• approve preliminary and final architectural plans
• solicit and approve bid documents
• approve all contracts and any change orders to the contract

Library Staff

The library director and staff actively participate in planning for construction projects by compiling information, surveys, and statistics; by helping to prepare a written building program; by preparing building applications and reports; and by maintaining project records. The library director must be a member of the building team for accomplishment of a functional plan to support the library program.

Library Building Consultant

The consultant is usually an experienced librarian who has participated in several building projects. The cost of a building consultant can usually be saved many times over in reductions in construction and operating costs. Working with board and staff the building consultant can provide any or all of the following services:

• survey the library’s space needs
• write the library building program
• project a preliminary project budget
• provide site analysis and recommendations
• provide advice on funding options
• provide assistance in selection of the architect
• review all plans prepared by the architect and provide a written evaluation
• review needs, specifications, and layout for shelving, furniture, and equipment
• provide a final inspection of the facility

We’re Set to Go. What’s Next?

The board, with its planning completed, money in hand, and architecture in the final stages of plans, should follow this sequence:

• Review every nuance of the building plan. Decide what features can be optional (bid alternates) so that separate bids can be taken on these items.
• Review estimated costs so that the construction bids do not surprise.
• Follow all local ordinances and structures. Zoning and building codes should be checked as plans are made, but enlist the help of appropriate officials in the plan review and in recommending contractors to be asked to bid.
• Follow correct bidding procedures, legal and ethical. Allow time for bidders to estimate closely. Invite enough bidders so that there is a range.
• Analyze bids ruthlessly. Be sure you are getting what was specified with no unsuitable substitutes. Accept the bid that most closely meets specifications as well as offering good value.
• All bids too costly? You can call for new bids to an amended set of specifications. You can also rule out the optional features (bid alternatives) that did prove to be too much.
• Create a team of board, director, architect, and contractor to follow progress and to make regular reports.
• Expect some changes. Discoveries will be made about unexpected problems and opportunities. The contractor may suggest, for example, that a new tile may be less expensive and serve just as well as that specified. If so, that’s a credit you can apply to something that will cost more (such as discovering poor soil on the site).
• Expect performance. This building is going to be a fixture in the community for a long time and should be properly and expertly built. Some boards find that the contractor has taken the job as a fill-in. Don’t accept excuses!
• Watch the expenditure of funds in a professional manager. Payments should be made upon proper evidence, but promptly. If you need financial advice, seek it from a good mortgage banker or experienced purchaser of construction.
• Meet frequently during the building process. Meetings keep you in touch with progress, permit decisions on changes, and provide the material for ongoing public relations in the community.
• Plan for orderly occupation of the building, when it’s ready, with festivities and community involvement. Allow plenty of time for moving in, completing the landscaping and other amenities, and then showing off the newest and best community asset.

Keep in the back of your mind how long it took to achieve this objective. Keep “need for expansion” in your planning process so that the next building will arrive when it is needed. There is nothing more satisfying than a new facility that enlarges the ability of the board to bring exciting services to an appreciative community.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT BUILDINGS

Confirm the needs the building will serve and decide how to translate these into an actual plan:

1. Should the board use a building consultant?

In recent years, many librarians have specialized as building consultants, most often in determining space needs and layout for the purpose the board has envisioned. A consultant will look at the community data, consult with the librarian, staff, and board, and apply data to recommendations right down to location and size of a department in the building. Most consultants are not designers, but they provide guidance to the architect who must visualize the structure.

The Library of Virginia can provide a number of names of consultants for the board’s consideration.

2. How does a board find an architect?

Boards can visit or review plans and pictures of other libraries for clues to architects who may be asked to be interviewed. There are some architects who specialize in libraries.

The board will need to be satisfied that the architect has a good understanding of the functions of libraries, will work closely with the board on designs reflecting what the board feels the community will enjoy, and will give good supervision with the contractor. Legal counsel should be sought on an appropriate contract.

Even architects experienced in library design need the guidance of specifications for use by the library: space for special purposes, the need for floor loads, extra power, access by the handicapped. Directors (and the consultant if used) will have noted the special needs of libraries for public and private areas, for loading, for staff use, and for expansion at a later date.

3. How does the board find a contractor?

Specifications by an architect will be submitted to contractors for bids. It is wise for the board to have the specifications include a number of options so that it can add or subtract as cost is known. Libraries that think ahead have often been able to get inexpensive future expansion space, for example, with the building. And the board should be prepared to settle for less luxurious features should costs mount.
The board should interview contractors if it wishes to pre-qualify them for the bidding. Often the municipality or county will have a list of those to whom it offers the bidding opportunity. Multiple bids are needed, but an overly long list may not add to the board’s ability to make the decision. Low bid is one factor, probably the most important, but value and evidence of good work elsewhere are additional considerations.

4. Who supervises the building?

Usually the library director is the link from the board to the architect and builder and to the person who checks to be sure the library is meeting local ordinances and codes. The director and architect, and sometimes the builder, bring to the board decisions on changes as well as regular reports on progress. The board watches and asks questions. The project is a team effort, which may also involve local officials. The better the original plans and the more precise the specifications, the more likely that construction will run smoothly.

Most library boards, having weathered a building project, report that vigilance on the part of the board, watch-dogging by the architect, timely performance by the builder, and surveillance by the director kept the project on time and in good order. Most boards also report relief when the project was completed; building can be a trying time for all the people involved.

5. How does the library keep the public informed?

Especially on a visible building going up, there will be public interest in what’s happening. Regular updating of press releases is indicated, and there are times during the process when special events can be held, such as groundbreaking, cornerstone laying (perhaps with a time capsule), setting the first brick, and topping off.

6. How should the board plan well in advance for use of the new facility?

Plan and announce, when it’s safe to do so, an occupancy date when the public can see the building. If the community is to be involved in helping to move, set dates and procedures.

Withhold an open house until the library is really ready, complete with parking and landscaping. Make the ceremonies memorable; the date will be the library’s birthday for many years.

7. When does the board begin thinking about future needs?

Ideally, the new space will meet needs for a long time—but not forever! Keep on the planning agenda some space for thinking about what comes next.

Most of these elements apply to planning of new space whether in a new building, an existing building, or a conversion.
CONSTRUCTION TIMETABLE

Trustees should understand that the planning process for library construction will require a substantial amount of effort by the board, the library director, and the staff. Planning normally takes approximately twenty-four months and delays must be anticipated.

Sample Timetable for a Building Project

February   Preliminary determination of a space need
March      Selection of a building program consultant if one is to be hired
May        Building program written
June       Site application completed
August     General and financial application (local funding commitment) completed
March      Architect’s contract signed
           Title to site transferred
April      Architect’s schematic plans reviewed by trustees and director
May        Architect’s design development plans reviewed by trustees and director
July       Architect’s working drawings reviewed by trustees and director
August     Advertise for bids after approval of architect’s final plans
October    Bids are publicly opened and contract awarded to lowest bidder meeting all requirements
November   Construction of library begins
FUNDING FOR BUILDINGS

The need for a new library building or renovation of an existing one is usually evident long before funds become available to begin the project. Good planning, along with the commitment of the board, can help shorten the time between these two points.

There are a variety of sources for financing library buildings. In many cases, more than one source is used. The board and the library director should be aware of the different funding possibilities and be thoroughly familiar with the advantages and disadvantages of each one.

Local Government Appropriation

The local government is a viable source of funding for buildings. It is not uncommon for a project to be financed over a period of three to five years, scheduled to accommodate the use of current revenues.

Bond Issues

Another method is to have a library bond referendum on the ballot to finance the project. This method requires the development of a comprehensive-needs statement, convincing the local government of the needs, understanding the electorate, and conducting an effective campaign.

Gifts and Bequests

Gifts and bequests from citizens and corporations have traditionally provided funds to supplement other sources of funding. Occasionally, a single benefactor will contribute the full amount or make a substantial contribution to the building fund. As a rule, however, securing funds by this means is a slow process and should not be relied on as the sole funding source.

Public Subscription and Donations

Fund-raising requires a great deal of time and careful planning. Unless professional assistance is available, it is difficult to depend on this means except for small projects.

Evaluate the library annually when planning for future development. Review the budget versus service, personnel, public relations, policies, regulations, building maintenance, etc.

7 These roles and responsibilities are primarily for governing boards. Advisory boards' roles and responsibilities may be different.
TRUSTEES AND THE POLITICAL PROCESS

It is essential for trustees to be knowledgeable about the political process and to learn ways to affect decision making. It is equally important for trustees to understand the layers of the political process. In Virginia, these layers include town, county or city, and state officials who have certain powers through which libraries gain support. On the national level, Congress makes broad decisions that filter directly down to affect states and localities. Trustees need to cultivate frank, open relationships with all of these officials, working with them to produce the best possible climate for libraries.

LOBBYING

Lobbying is the process of expressing opinions to the decision makers and supporting those opinions. It provides an excellent opportunity for trustees to speak out with knowledge and experience, to present facts, figures, and evidence, and to help legislators understand libraries and what they mean to their constituents. Trustees should get to know their elected officials on the local, state, and national levels and to communicate with them about the issues affecting libraries.

Lobbying is the job of trustees. You represent the community and are advocates of the library. Trustees can make a different because:

- You see the library from the user’s viewpoint.
- You have a perspective on the full range of public services.
- You represent a broad base of consumers.
- You are volunteer participants in government.
- You are voters.

Remember, you do not have to do it alone. Others in the community will be willing to support you if you provide them with the facts and let them know you need their help. In any lobbying effort, participants need to understand the legislative process and to proceed under a coordinated plan of action.

Although there are a variety of ways to lobby, there is no substitute for personal contact. Remember always to thank elected officials for listening to you and for helping you.

Keep up with proposed legislation on the local, state, and national levels that may have an impact on library service in your community. Support and participate in state and national Legislative Day activities sponsored by the Virginia Library Association. Be a true advocate for libraries!
THE ABCs OF LOBBYING FOR LIBRARY TRUSTEES

ANSWERS Be sure you have them. Anticipate questions and be prepared.

BUILD coalition. Involve others who share your concerns: library users, Friends, business people, teachers, retirees.

COMMUNICATE State your case clearly, concisely, consistently.

DEVELOP a plan with a timetable for what you want to accomplish. Follow it.

EXPERT Remember, you’re it.

FOCUS on the facts. Prepare a simple fact sheet to give to legislators. Use as the basis for letters, testimonials.

GOALS Know what you want and how you aim to make it happen.

HELP Offer the library’s services to those you’re trying to impress.

INVITE a legislator to lunch. Sponsor special legislative days or breakfasts to share your concerns.

JOG their minds about libraries year-round. Send newsletters, articles of special interest. Don’t wait for a crisis to make a contact.

KEEP our cool. Avoid arguments. Keep talking and smiling.

LOCAL Represent the local point of view. Tell how the proposal will affect the library and voters in your community.

MEMBERS Don’t take your members/supporters for granted. Keep them informed of what is happening and how they can help.

NEEDS Know the library’s needs and priorities. Work with the director.

OPINION Speak up with your opinion. Make clear whom you represent.

POLITICS Learn how politics are played in your area, who the key players are.

QUICKLY Know the status of your proposal and be ready to respond quickly.

REASONABLE Keep your request reasonable. Be prepared to compromise.
SUPPORT legislators who support libraries. Give money. Campaign. Urge others to support them. Above all, vote for them.

THANK your legislators in person and in writing. Let them know you appreciate them.

USE the correct form of address, a small, but important detail. Check your library for correct names, titles, and addresses.

VISIT your legislators. Attend meetings. Let them meet the face behind the voice or letter.

WRITE letters, friendly, to the point, that let the legislator know where you stand. Avoid form letters.

(E)XTRA attention to detail pays off. Your credibility depends on being well organized.

YOU can make a difference. Let those in power know there are people out there who care about libraries.

ZEALOUS Never give up! Be zealous in your efforts to keep libraries visible and their needs known.

Adapted from the brochure Speaking Out For Libraries, produced by the American Library Trustee Association.

Do you know your local, state, and national elected officials?

Have you contacted your state or national legislators about library legislation or funding?

Do you discuss pending legislation at your board meetings?
PUBLIC RELATIONS

Public relations goes beyond the development of publicity to advertise the services and resources of the library. It encompasses a total program in which the library projects the true images of what it is and how it functions, with the goal of developing better understanding and support from the various publics that it serves.

Reality dictates that libraries must be marketed if they are to realize their full potential. It is essential, therefore, for trustees to have a clear understanding of the importance of public relations, to establish a public relations policy, and to become involved as a board and as individuals.

PUBLICITY

There are a variety of ways in which the library can inform the community of its services and foster a positive public image. Liberal use of the media and creative use of all forms of publicity help to make the public aware of the wide range of materials and services that the library provides. The board must assure that time, staff, and funding are available for advertising library services.

BOARD RESPONSIBILITIES

- Establish a public relations policy.
- Assure that the library has a public relations plan and schedule.
- Support staff training and involvement in the public relations program.
- Participate in public relations events and evaluate the public relations program and public services.
- Budget for public relations.

INDIVIDUAL TRUSTEE RESPONSIBILITIES

- Be vocal, visible, and well-informed.
- Use the library and spread the word.
- Listen to the community.
- Talk to individual groups about the library’s progress, plans, and policies.
- Work closely with local officials.
- Tell people what trustees do, who they are, when they meet, and how they can be reached.
- Sell the philosophy and merits of high-quality library service.
- Provide facts and figures to persuade people.
- Support the Friends of the Library and recruit members.
Does your library have a plan for public relations?
Does the budget include funds for public relations?
Do you actively promote the library in the community?
Friends of the Library are groups of citizens who join together to support, improve, and promote libraries. They understand the importance of library service to the community and work in a variety of ways to help provide high-quality service and to stimulate the use of the library.

Friends have no vested interest in the library and are in the unique position of being able to make enormous contributions in several areas: fund-raising, services, public relations, advocacy, volunteerism, and community involvement. Their activities change as needs change. Friends usually select a limited number of activities to emphasize.

The roles of trustees, library director, and Friends are related but distinct. Trustees represent citizen control and governance of the library. The library director represents the administration and management of the library. Friends of the Library represent citizen participation and assistance to the library. It is highly important to the success of the total library program that all three clearly understand their respective roles and work together toward common goals.

WORKING WITH FRIENDS

Trustees should assist the Friends organization and support its activities by providing leadership in the following ways:

- Develop a policy on Friends.
- Become a member and attend Friends special events.
- Appoint a liaison with the Friends.
- Ask for input from the Friends.
- Express appreciation to Friends for their support and service.

A good relationship between the library director and the Friends group is essential in fostering a climate for joint accomplishments. Each must have a basic understanding of their goals and objectives, a recognition of the strengths that each brings to a common purpose, and the realization that through cooperation they can achieve ultimate success.

WHAT ARE FRIENDS FOR?

The purposes of organizing a Friends organization vary depending on group interest and community needs. Friends are usually organized with one or more of the following objectives:

- to increase community awareness and use of the library
- to work for library legislation or appropriations
• to encourage gifts, endowments, and memorials for the library
• to provide direct financial assistance
• to raise money and campaign for a new building, renovation, or expansion
• to sponsor programs designed to add to the cultural life of the community
• to volunteer work in the library on specific projects designated by the director

Friends can be most effective by:

• adopting bylaws, including a clear statement of the Friends' roles
• keeping informed of library plans and policies
• planning their activities with the approval of the library director
• carrying out projects without excessive demands on the library staff

Need Help Organizing or Revitalizing a Friends Group?

The Library Development and Networking Services Division of the Library of Virginia can provide assistance in getting a Friends group organized and in maintaining an active program. Consultative service, books, videotapes, lists of other Friends groups, and a variety of brochures and newsletters are available on request.

Does your library have a Friends group?

Does the board have a policy on the Friends group?
Volunteers constitute an important community resource for many public libraries. When a program is developed, it should be with the understanding that the use of qualified volunteers in a library program is a supplement to, not a substitute for, paid staff.

Volunteers usually come to the library on an individual basis and participate in ongoing work or special projects within the library setting. Their tasks should be of genuine significance and should enhance the services and capabilities of the library. Volunteers can be advocates for the library within the community.

Libraries should not undertake a volunteer program unless the library board and the director are committed to the concept and are willing to devote the necessary time to develop a program that is well managed and will benefit the library.

Successful volunteer programs are:

- planned and approved by the staff and board
- based on written policy
- managed under sound personnel practices—training, evaluation, and development are important to volunteers
- clear about job descriptions, the status of the volunteer, supervision, expectations as to work schedule, and consistent service
- clear about policies concerning insurance, use of library vehicles, and paid expenses
- cognizant of the need to recognize and show appreciation for volunteer work
- realistic in expectations of hours donated, types of work to be done, and the training required
- open to the community, in an effort to utilize the skills and talents of people who can contribute to the enhancement of library service

Has the board adopted a policy for volunteers?

Are there procedures in place for managing the volunteer program?
Successful board teams pay attention to the process of how they operate. Just as they evaluate the progress of their library, they must also assess the operation of the board team and determine how they can do the job better.

It’s up to the library board to hold itself accountable for good performance. To do that correctly, your board should take time every year to formally evaluate board performance. The purpose of the evaluation is not to find fault with board members or the full board, but to examine strengths and weaknesses. The formal self-evaluation should be followed with a plan to improve board performance.

MISSION

The Library of Virginia collects, preserves, publishes, and makes available materials and records of Virginia's history and culture. It manages a general reference and research library; is the official depository of state documents and a repository of local and federal documents; provides direction, assistance, and counsel to all libraries in the commonwealth, to all communities which may propose to establish libraries, and to all persons interested in public libraries; administers and distributes state and federal library funds; contracts with other states, regions, or districts for the purpose of providing cooperative library services; conducts a program of records management for official state and local records; serves as the archival agency of the state; and publishes original documents and manuscripts related to the commonwealth of Virginia.

The Library of Virginia was established by the General Assembly in 1823. It is the library agency of the state, the archival agency of the Commonwealth, and the reference library at the seat of government. The Library of Virginia's new building on Broad Street between Eighth and Ninth Streets contains 316,500 square feet of office and collection storage space plus two levels of underground parking for patrons and visitors. This six-story building includes a lecture hall, conference-sized meeting space, an exhibition room, comfortable reading areas, and special rooms providing secure access to archival records and special collections.

The Library of Virginia is governed by The Library Board, whose fifteen members are appointed by the Governor. It is directed by the Librarian of Virginia who is appointed by The Library Board.

The Library of Virginia is organized into six divisions: the Archival and Information Services Division, the Collection Management Services Division, the Information Technology Services Division, the Library Development and Networking Division, the Publications and Educational Services Division, and the Records Management and Imaging Services Division.

ARCHIVAL AND INFORMATION SERVICES

The Library of Virginia manages the archival and printed collections of the commonwealth of Virginia in fulfillment of its mission as the research and reference library at the seat of state government. As the official state archival repository, the Library preserves and provides access to more than 96.3 million archival items documenting four centuries of Virginia history. Among these materials are the papers of Virginia's governors, legislative bodies, and state agencies; birth, marriage, and death records; tax lists; Bible records; some of the oldest county and city court records in the United States; maps; and the private papers of many Virginia citizens, businesses, and community organizations. The Library also houses and makes available to researchers 1,816,432 books, serials, bound periodicals, federal documents and microforms. The Library's collections also include 240,000 photographs, prints, engravings, broadsides, posters, and paintings.
COLLECTION MANAGEMENT SERVICES

The Library of Virginia is responsible for developing and maintaining extensive collections of printed materials. Through its Technical Services department, the Library locates, acquires, and processes a wide array of books, journals, newspapers, and other materials. The Library also offers researchers superb special collections of rare books, imprints, broadsides, prints, posters, artwork, and photographs. The Library’s Government Documents Program receives and provides access to a wide range of state and federal online and in-print publications and other research resources. The program also coordinates the State Documents Depository System, collecting and distributing state publications to twelve participating library systems across the commonwealth and to the Library of Congress. The Library’s Virginia Newspaper Project is a multi-year program to locate, catalog, and microfilm thousands of newspapers from the early 1700s to the present. The Library of Virginia also coordinates an extensive and multifaceted conservation-preservation program designed to ensure that the Library's incomparable collections are maintained for future citizens.

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY SERVICES

The Library of Virginia is dependent upon technology to accomplish its mission and meet its goals. The Information Technology Services (ITS) Division provides the technical services required to support the other divisions of the library. The ITS Division is responsible for all aspects of the library’s information systems and services. These include maintaining and expanding the network infrastructure, operating the library’s critical systems and applications, and supporting the internal and external users of our technology. The ITS Division is also responsible for information security and technology planning and growth, as well as policy formulation and implementation of electronic records and digital imaging standards to be used by state agencies and localities. In addition, LVA’s Webmaster manages the library’s increased presence on the Internet through our Web site (http://www.lva.lib.va.us), which is used by more than 2 million visitors worldwide each year to gain access to many of the library’s resources.

LIBRARY DEVELOPMENT AND NETWORKING

The Library of Virginia provides professional consultation and support to more than three hundred public libraries in the commonwealth’s extensive library system, as well as to library staffs in state agencies, schools, colleges, museums, corporations, and private organizations throughout Virginia. Library Development consultants foster cooperation among Virginia’s libraries in areas such as children’s and young adult services, the development of trustee and friends groups, and continuing education and training. The Library also administers and distributes state and federal aid funds to Virginia’s public libraries. The Library Development and Networking Division oversees the Infopowering the Commonwealth initiative, including access to Find It Virginia electronic databases.
PUBLICATIONS AND EDUCATIONAL SERVICES

The Publications and Educational Services Division increases awareness of and access to the Library of Virginia’s collections and enhances knowledge of and interest in the history, culture, and literary heritage of Virginia through publications, exhibitions, and educational and literary programs. The Library of Virginia’s publications program, begun in 1904, presents works in the field of Virginia history and culture including documentary editions, genealogical resources, bibliographies, collection finding aids, monographs, and reference works. Among the more notable recent projects is the ongoing publication of the multivolume Dictionary of Virginia Biography. The Library also offers a number of educational programs and services, including book talks and signings, lectures, workshops, exhibition tours, and symposia for students, educators, history professionals, and the general public. The exhibition program highlights important themes in Virginia culture and history with a special emphasis on materials housed in the Library’s vast collections. The division also assists with the selection and judging of books for the Library of Virginia Literary Awards each year in order to foster greater awareness and appreciation of books, reading, and the literary heritage of Virginia.

RECORDS MANAGEMENT SERVICES

The Library of Virginia administers a comprehensive records management program for the commonwealth in compliance with the provisions of the Virginia Public Records Act. With consultation provided by the Records Analysis Services Branch, state and local government organizations receive direction in managing the creation, utilization, maintenance, retention, disposition, or preservation of records, with an emphasis on preserving Virginia’s rich and historically significant public records. Through its Archival Description Services Branch, the Library locates, acquires, and processes a wide array of manuscripts, private papers, and state records. The Library’s Local Records Services Branch processes and makes accessible the records of Virginia’s towns, cities, and counties that have been transferred to the Archives. The vast majority of these holdings are from the commonwealth’s 120 circuit courts. In addition, through its Circuit Court Records Preservation Program, the branch administers grants to localities to process and preserve historical records remaining in the localities. The Library’s Imaging Services Branch provides secure storage facilities at the State Records Center for a variety of media formats and monitors compliance with standards established for long term storage of archival quality microfilm.

FINANCE AND ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES

The divisions, branches, and departments of the Library of Virginia receive administrative support services from the Accounting and Procurement Services, Budget and Finance Reporting Services, Facilities Management, Human Resources Services, Patron Services, Photographic and Photocopy Services, Public Relations, and Support Services units. Public libraries may request assistance on human resources issues and procurement requirements from the appropriate department.

AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION (ALA)

The American Library Association is the oldest and largest library association in the world. Its membership of more than 56,000 includes librarians, trustees, other interested persons, and institutions.

The purpose of the association is to provide leadership for the development, promotion, and improvement of library and information services and the profession of librarianship in order to enhance learning and ensure access to information for all. Major areas of concern include access to information, legislation and funding, intellectual freedom, public awareness, personnel resources, and library services, development, and technology.

The association publishes a monthly journal for members, American Libraries, and has two major conferences a year (usually in January and June).

For more information, contact the American Library Association, 50 East Huron Street, Chicago, IL 60611. Tel: (800) 545-2433. Internet address: http://www.ala.org [viewed 7/8/2005].

AMERICAN LIBRARY TRUSTEE ASSOCIATION (ALTA)

The American Library Trustee Association is the division of ALA that is primarily concerned with the interests of trusteeship. Membership benefits include: the means to connect with libraries of all sizes in all parts of the country; advisory services from the professional head-quarters staff; ALTA The Voice subscription; the opportunity to serve on one of the ALTA committees of special interest to trustees; information on publications relating to library trusteeship; and discounts on ALTA publications.

Write to: American Library Trustee Association, American Library Association, 50 East Huron Street, Chicago, IL 60611. Tel: (800) 545-2433.

ALA WASHINGTON, D.C., OFFICE

The American Library Association has an office in Washington that serves as a liaison between the membership of ALA and the federal government. The staff monitors actions of the federal government that affect libraries and disseminates this information to the membership. The staff also supplies information on libraries to Congress and government agencies, and works for legislation affecting library programs.
The ALA Washington Office Electronic Newsline (ALAWON) is a free E-mail publication providing urgent and late-breaking library news from Washington, D.C. For more information, write to: American Library Association, 1301 Pennsylvania Ave., NW, Washington, D.C. 20004. Tel: (202) 628-8410. FRIENDS OF LIBRARIES U.S.A. (FOLUSA)

FOLUSA is a national organization that works to develop and support local and state Friends of Library groups throughout the country. The organization meets twice a year in conjunction with the American Library Association. These conferences offer opportunities to meet peers from other states, to engage in problem solving, and to share successes.

The organization provides a number of publications, including a bimonthly newsletter, Fact Sheets, which presents summaries of the basic needs by Friends groups, three videos, pamphlets on advocacy, general activities, and the Friends of Libraries Sourcebook, 3d ed.

FOLUSA also provides a speaker’s bureau and offers a special discount on selected Friends’ publications.

Southeastern Library Association (SELA)

The Southeastern Library Association is a regional organization whose objectives are to promote library and information services in the southeastern region of the United States through cooperation, research, and the encouragement of staff development.

Membership encompasses the states of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia.

The association has the Trustees and Friends of the Library Section, established for the purpose of promoting libraries and library services through continuing education of trustees and Friends of the Library by means of workshops and the biennial conference.

SELA’s biennial conference is held during even-numbered years and the association conducts workshops occasionally.

SELA publishes an online newsletter, The Southeastern Librarian, available on the Internet at http://sela.jsu.edu/SoutheasternLibrarian/SELn.htm [viewed 7/8/2005].
The Virginia Library Association was formed on December 6, 1905, at a meeting held at the Virginia State Library. Since that time it has played an important role in promoting library establishment, securing funding, and advancing the educational, cultural, and economic conditions in the state.

VLA is a statewide organization whose purpose is to promote the interests of libraries and library service in the commonwealth of Virginia. It is composed of libraries, librarians, trustees, Friends, and other interested individuals. Approximately 1,200 individual and institutional members represent a cross-section of educational, commercial, and professional interests.

Publications include: Virginia Libraries (issued quarterly) and the VLA Newsletter (published monthly, except January and July).

The association sponsors the Virginia Library Association Jobline, an Internet service listing job openings in Virginia libraries. For further information contact VLA at (757) 583-0041 or on the Internet at http://www.vla.org [viewed 7/8/2005].

For more information, write to: Virginia Library Association, P.O. Box 8277, Norfolk, Virginia 23503-0277.

TRUSTEE/FRIENDS FORUM

The Trustee/Friends Forum of the Virginia Library Association provides an opportunity for trustees and Friends to take an active role in the advancement of better library service throughout the state. The association strives to educate individual trustees and Friends through publications, programs, and personal contacts; to work for library legislation for improved library service; and to inform and stimulate the interest of trustees and Friends for greater effectiveness.
GLOSSARY OF LIBRARY TERMS AND ACRONYMS

AACRII: Anglo-American Cataloguing Rules, used as a standard for cataloging procedures and decisions in most libraries and revised periodically.

Acceptable Internet Use Policy: Local public library policy that governs users of the library’s Internet access.

Access: The availability of library and information services to any personal user. Access is complicated by such things as architectural barriers, illiteracy, and inadequate physical plants.

Accredited Library School: A school teaching library and information science at the master’s degree level that has qualified for accreditation under requirements of the American Library Association.

Acquisitions: The process of selecting and procuring books, periodicals, and other materials by purchase, exchange, and gift; of processing invoices for payment; and of keeping the necessary records of these acquired items.

ADA: Americans with Disabilities Act, a comprehensive and complex act of Congress passed in 1990. The act is intended to eliminate discrimination against the disabled. Title III deals with access to public accommodations including libraries. ADA also deals with employment practices.

ALA: American Library Association, the national professional organization.

ALTA: American Library Trustees Association, a division of ALA.

Automation: Application of computers and other technology to library operations and services.

A-V: Audiovisual. Communication resources that rely on a device for transmission, reproduction, or enlargement to be fully utilized (e.g., films, records, cassettes, compact discs). Print and print substitutes are excluded.

Bar Code: Vertical bar patterns representing numbers or letters, that can be read by electronic hardware and software. Used for inventory control, tracking, and identification of materials. Also used in library circulation systems for checking out materials to patrons.

Bibliographic Control: The uniform identification of items of recorded information in various media and the availability of a mechanism for gaining subsequent access to such information.
BIBLIOGRAPHIC INSTRUCTION: The process whereby library staff members teach users to develop independent skills in using the library and to gain access to information. Activities include tours and orientation to the library’s services, arrangement, and materials; instruction in using the catalog and reference tool; and instruction in using technology.

BIBLIOGRAPHY: A complete or selected list of print or nonprint materials on a particular subject or by a particular author.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES: The governing or advisory board of a public library.

BOOKMOBILE: Usually a van, bus, or station wagon filled with a collection of library materials that are used in areas where there are no libraries or limited library facilities.

BRANCH LIBRARY: An auxiliary unit of the Administrative Entity which has at least all of the following: 1) separate quarters; 2) an organized collection; 3) paid staff; and 4) regularly scheduled hours for being open to the public. 5) Open to the public at least 20 hours per week and telephone with a listed number. Outlets that do not meet these requirements are considered a Station Library.

CALL NUMBER: Letters and numbers indicating the location of a book or other material, usually composed of the classification number and the author’s last initial.

CATALOG: A guide to the materials found in the library, usually accessed by a personal computer.

CATALOGING: The process of preparing a catalog or entries for a catalog. This includes the classification and assignment of subject headings for books and materials and determining all points of access to the record.

CE: Continuing Education.

CENSORSHIP: The act of attempting to prohibit or restrict access to materials or information.

CENTRAL OR MAIN LIBRARY: Headquarters of a city, county, or regional system.

CENTRALIZED CATALOGING: The preparation of catalog records for libraries at diverse locations by a central department or agency.

CERTIFICATION: The process whereby the holder of a master’s degree from an ALA-accredited graduate school of library science is issued a certificate to practice as a professional librarian in the commonwealth of Virginia. The Library Board is the authorized agency for the certification of librarians in Virginia.
CIRCULATION: The activity of a library in lending books and other materials to borrowers and keeping a record of such loans.

CLASSIFICATION: A systematic scheme for the arrangement of books and other material according to subject or form. The two most common systems in use in the United States are the Dewey Decimal and the Library of Congress classifications.

COLLECTION: A group of library materials having a common characteristic, such as Juvenile Collection, Reference Collection, Pamphlet Collection, etc. The term may also refer to the aggregate of the library's entire holdings.

COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT: The process for selecting library materials to meet a library's needs, goals, objectives, and priorities, as well as developing criteria for removing items no longer needed for the collection.

CONFIDENTIAL RECORD: Records prohibited from public disclosure because access to information may cause harm or embarrassment to the state, its citizens, or other individuals or organizations. Includes information exempt from disclosure under the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), proprietary information, protected business data, and other information as outlined in agency or locality policies, directives, or regulations.

CONSORTIUM: A formal or informal association of libraries or other organizations having the same or interrelated objectives.

COPYRIGHT: A legal way to protect ownership of a creative work by the artist, writer, or photographer who made it. Provides the copyright owner the exclusive right to authorize reproduction or other uses of the work for a specific period of time.

DATA: A term for facts, numbers, letters, or symbols describing an object, idea, situation, etc.

DATABASE: A large compilation of information that can be immediately accessed and operated on by a computer data-processing system. Any organized collection of data, gathered and stored in a computer.

DISASTER PLAN: A document that outlines a systematic and planned response to safeguard records and other materials from potential disasters (floods, fire, earthquakes, etc.). Identifies most valuable and vulnerable parts of collection and provides method for removal and recovery of materials. Disaster planning is the physical act of gathering information, identifying resources, outlining resources, outlining responsibilities, and formulating plans in response to possible disasters.
Distance Education: Conducting educational activities across geographical space where the teacher and students are not in the same location. Can be delivered via television, correspondence, radio, Internet, etc. Emphasis is on increasing opportunities by overcoming barriers of geography, personal or work commitments, and conventional course structures.

Document Delivery: The provision of a required item to a user. Originally the physical supply of a book or journal. Now also includes delivery by photocopy, fax, E-mail, and other electronic means.

Fair Use: Provision of the copyright law stipulating the allowable and legal use of short passages of copyrighted material without permission, for instance, as quotations in a magazine or book.

Find It Virginia: Find It Virginia is part of the Infopowering the Commonwealth initiative, a cooperative project of the Library of Virginia and Virginia's public libraries, which is designed to promote and support public access computing, Internet connectivity, and quality information resources in all Virginia public libraries. All the residents of the commonwealth can find magazine and newspaper articles, encyclopedias and other reference works, TV and radio transcripts, company information and investment reports, health and wellness information, and homework help, plus photos, charts, maps, diagrams, and illustrations.

FirstSearch: Collection of resources available to the staff of public libraries including World Cat (catalog of holdings of a number of libraries worldwide), Books In Print, and some very specialized research databases.

FOIA: Freedom of Information Act for Virginia—State law requiring public records be open for inspection by interested parties (see §2.2-3700 of the Code of Virginia). Exempt records are those that have been exempted from public disclosure under the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act.

VERTICAL FILE: A collection of pamphlets, clippings, and/or pictures kept in a filing cabinet and arranged for ready reference, generally by subject. Also called Pamphlet File or Information File.

VIVA: Virtual Library of Virginia. VIVA’s mission is to provide, in an equitable, cooperative, and cost effective manner, enhanced access to library and information resources for the commonwealth of Virginia’s nonprofit academic libraries serving the higher education community.

VLA: Virginia Library Association.

VPLDA: Virginia Public Library Directors Association.

WAN: Wide Area Network. Any Internet or network that covers an area larger than a single building or campus.

WEEDING: The process of examining books, pamphlets, and various other materials and removing from the current collection those items that are out-of-date, obsolete, shabby, or unneeded duplicates.
§42.1-1. The Library of Virginia. The Library of Virginia is hereby declared an educational institution and an institution of learning. The Library of Virginia shall be the library agency of the Commonwealth, the archival agency of the Commonwealth, and the reference library at the seat of government. It shall have the following powers and duties:

(1) [Repealed.]

(2) To accept gifts, bequests and endowments for the purposes which fall within the general legal powers and duties of The Library of Virginia. Unless otherwise specified by the donor or legator, the Library may either expend both the principal and interest of any gift or bequest or may invest such sums as the Board deems advisable, with the consent of the State Treasurer, in securities in which sinking funds may be invested. The Library shall be deemed to be an institution of higher education within the meaning of §23-9.2;

(3) To purchase and maintain a general collection of books, periodicals, newspapers, maps, films, audiovisual materials and other materials for the use of the people of the Commonwealth as a means for the promotion of knowledge within the Commonwealth. The scope of the Library's collections shall be determined by the Library Board on recommendation of the Librarian of Virginia, and, in making these decisions, the Board and Librarian of Virginia shall take into account the book collections of public libraries and college and university libraries throughout the Commonwealth and the availability of such collections to the general public. The Board shall make available for circulation to libraries or to the public such of its materials as it deems advisable;

(4) To give assistance, advice and counsel to other agencies of the Commonwealth maintaining libraries and special reference collections as to the best means of establishing and administering such libraries and collections. It may establish in The Library of Virginia a union catalogue of all books, pamphlets and other materials owned and used for reference purposes by all other agencies of the Commonwealth and of all books, pamphlets and other materials maintained by libraries in the Commonwealth which are of interest to the people of the whole Commonwealth;

(5) To fix reasonable penalties for damage to or failure to return any book, periodical or other material owned by the Library, or for violation of any rule or regulation concerning the use of books, periodicals, and other materials in custody of the Library;

(6) To give direction, assistance and counsel to all libraries in the Commonwealth, to all communities which may propose to establish libraries, and to all persons interested in public libraries, as to means of establishment and administration of such libraries, selection of books, retrieval systems, cataloguing, maintenance, and other details of library management, and to conduct such inspections as are necessary;

(7) To engage in such activities in aid of city, county, town, regional and other public libraries as will serve to develop the library system of the Commonwealth;

(8) To administer and distribute state and federal library funds in accordance with law and its own regulations to the city, county, town and regional libraries of the Commonwealth; and
(9) To enter into contracts with other states or regions or districts for the purpose of providing cooperative library services.

Wherever in this title and the Code of Virginia the terms “State Library” or “Library” appear, they shall mean The Library of Virginia. (Code 1950, §42-33; 1970, c. 606; 1984, cc. 389, 734; 1986, c. 565; 1987, c. 458; 1994, c. 64; 1998, c. 427.)

§42.1-2. The Library of Virginia under direction of Library Board; membership; chairman and vice-chairman; committees and advisory bodies. The Library of Virginia shall be directed by a board, consisting of fifteen members, to be appointed by the Governor, which shall be and remain a corporation under the style of “The Library Board,” sometimes in this chapter called the Board. Prior to such appointments the Board may submit to the Governor lists of candidates based upon interest and knowledge, geographic representation, participation in community affairs, and concern for the welfare of the Commonwealth. In no case shall the Governor be bound to make any appointment from among the nominees of the Board. The Board shall meet and organize by electing from its number a chairman and vice-chairman. It shall have the power to appoint such committees and advisory bodies as it deems advisable. (Code 1950, §42-34; 1968, c. 122; 1970, c. 606; 1986, c. 565; 1987, c. 458; 1994, c. 64.)

§42.1-13. Appointment; terms of office; employment; duties. The Board shall appoint a librarian, to be known as the Librarian of Virginia, who shall serve at the pleasure of the Board. The Librarian of Virginia shall appoint principal assistants and approve the appointment of other employees. The terms of office and employment of such assistants and employees shall be subject to the personnel regulations of the Commonwealth.

The Librarian of Virginia shall supervise the administration of The Library of Virginia. The Librarian of Virginia shall make requests for appropriations of necessary funds and approve all expenditures of Library funds. Such expenditures shall be made as provided by law. (Code 1950, §42-48; 1970, c. 606; 1984, c. 444; 1985, c. 397; 1986, c. 565; 1994, c. 64; 1996, c. 812; 1998, c. 427.)

CERTIFICATION LAW

§42.1-15.1. Qualifications required to hold professional librarian position. Public libraries serving a political subdivision or subdivisions having a population greater than 13,000 and libraries operated by the Commonwealth or under its authority shall not use funds derived from any state aid to employ, in the position of librarian or in any other full-time professional librarian position, a person who does not meet the qualifications established by the State Library Board.

A professional librarian position as used in this section is one that requires a knowledge of books and of library technique equivalent to that required for graduation from any accredited library school or one that requires graduation from a school of library science accredited by the American Library Association.
No funds derived from any state aid shall be paid to any person whose employment does not comply with this section.

This section shall not apply to law libraries organized pursuant to Chapter 4 (§42.1-60 et seq.) of this title, libraries in colleges and universities or to public school libraries. (1988, c. 716; 2004, c. 559.)

LAWS GOVERNING THE ESTABLISHMENT OF PUBLIC LIBRARIES IN VIRGINIA

§42.1-33. Power of local government to establish and support libraries. The governing body of any city, county or town shall have the power to establish a free public library for the use and benefit of its residents. The governing body shall provide sufficient support for the operation of the library by levying a tax therefore, either by special levy or as a fund of the general levy of the city, county or town. The word “support” as used in this chapter shall include but is not limited to, purchase of land for library buildings, purchase or erection of buildings for library purposes, purchase of library books, materials and equipment, compensation of library personnel, and all maintenance expenses for library property and equipment. Funds appropriated or contributed for public library purposes shall constitute a separate fund and shall not be used for any but public library purposes.

§42.1-34. Power of local governments to contract for library service. Any city, town or county shall have the power to enter into contracts with adjacent cities, counties, towns, or state-supported institutions of higher learning to receive or to provide library service on such terms and conditions as shall be mutually acceptable, or they may contract for a library service with a library not owned by a public corporation but maintained for free public use. The board of trustees of a free public library may enter into contracts with county, city or town school boards and boards of school trustees to provide library service for schools. Any city or county governing body contracting for library service shall, as a part of such contract, have the power to appoint at least one member to the board of trustees or other governing body of the library contracting to provide such service. Any city or county thus contracting for library service shall be entitled to the rights and benefits of regional free library systems established in accordance with the provisions of 42.1-37. The board of trustees or other governing body of any library established under the provisions of 42.1-33 may also, with the approval of and on terms satisfactory to the State Library Board, extend its services to persons in adjacent areas of other states.

§42.1-35. Library boards generally. The management and control of a free public library system shall be vested in a board of not less than five members or trustees. They shall be appointed by the governing body, chosen from the citizens at large with reference to their fitness for such office. However, one board member or trustee may be a member or an employee of the local governing body. Initially members may be appointed as follows: one member for a term of one year, one member for a term of two years, one member for a term of three years, and the remaining members for terms of four years; thereafter all members shall be appointed for terms of four years. The governing body of any county or city entitled to representation on a library board of a library system of another jurisdiction pursuant to 42.1-34 shall appoint a member to serve for a term of four years, or until the contract is terminated, whichever is shorter. Vacancies shall be filled for unexpired terms as soon as possible in the manner in which members of the board are regularly chosen. A member shall not receive a salary or other compensation for services as a member but necessary expenses actually incurred shall be paid from the library fund. However, the governing body of Fairfax County may pay members of its library board such compensation as it may deem proper. A member of a library board may be removed for misconduct or neglect of duty by the governing body making the appointment. The members shall adopt such bylaws, rules and regulations for their own guidance and for the government of the free public library system as may be expedient. They shall have control of the expenditures of all moneys credited to the library fund. The board shall have the right to accept donations and bequests of money, personal property, or real estate for the establishment and maintenance of such free public library systems or endowments for same.

§42.1-36. Boards not mandatory. The formation, creation or continued existence of boards shall in nowise be considered or construed in any manner as mandatory upon any city or town with a manager, or upon any county with a county manager, county executive, urban county manager or urban county executive form of government, or the Counties of Chesterfield and Shenandoah, by virtue of this chapter.

§42.1-36.1. Power and duty of library boards and certain governing bodies regarding acceptable Internet use policies.
A. On or before December 1, 1999, and biennially thereafter, (i) every library board established pursuant to 42.1-35 or (ii) the governing body of any county, city, or town which, pursuant to 42.1-36, has not established a library board pursuant to 42.1-35, shall file with the Librarian of Virginia an acceptable use policy for the international network of computer systems commonly known as the Internet. At a minimum, the policy shall contain provisions which (i) are designed to prohibit use by library employees and patrons of the library's computer equipment and communications services for sending, receiving, viewing, or downloading illegal material via the Internet, (ii) seek to prevent access by library patrons under the age of eighteen to material which is harmful to juveniles, and (iii) establish appropriate measures to be taken against persons who violate the policy. The library board or the governing body may include such other terms, conditions, and requirements in the library's policy as it deems appropriate, such as requiring written parental authorization for Internet use by juveniles or differentiating acceptable uses between elementary, middle, and high school students.

B. The library board or the governing body shall take such steps as it deems appropriate to implement and enforce the library's policy which may include, but are not limited to, (i) the use of software programs designed to block access by (a) library employees and patrons to illegal material or (b) library patrons under the age of eighteen to material which is harmful to juveniles or (c) both; (ii) charging library employees to casually monitor patrons' Internet use; or (iii) installing privacy screens on computers which access the Internet.
C. On or before December 1, 2000, and biennially thereafter, the Librarian of Virginia shall submit a report to the Chairmen of the House Committee on Education, the House Committee on Science and Technology, and the Senate Committee on Education and Health which summarizes the acceptable use policies filed with the Librarian pursuant to this section and the status thereof.

§42.1-37. Establishment of regional library system. Two or more political subdivisions (counties or cities), by action of their governing bodies, may join in establishing and maintaining a regional free library system under the terms of a contract between such political subdivisions; provided, that in the case of established county or city free library systems, the library boards shall agree to such action.

§42.1-38. Agreements to create regional boards. Two or more political subdivisions (counties or cities) which have qualified for participation in the state’s regional library program, have been recognized as a region by the State Library Board, and have made the minimum local appropriation of funds as may now or hereafter be recommended by the Board, are hereby empowered and authorized to execute contracts with each other to create a regional library board to administer and control the regional library services within the region. Each jurisdiction shall, as a part of such contract, have the power to appoint at least one member to the regional library board.

§42.1-39. Regional library boards generally. The members of the Board of a regional library system shall be appointed by the respective governing bodies represented. If the board of the regional library system is composed of two or more members from each county, city and town that is a part thereof, then each governing body represented on the board may appoint a member or an employee of the governing body to the board. Such members shall in the beginning draw lots for expiration of terms, to provide for staggered terms of office, and thereafter the appointment shall be for a term of four years. Vacancies shall be filled for unexpired terms as soon as possible in the manner in which members are regularly chosen. No appointive member shall be eligible to serve more than two successive terms. A member shall not receive a salary or other compensation for services as member, but necessary expenses actually incurred shall be paid from the library fund. A regional board member may be removed for misconduct or neglect of duty by the governing body making the appointment. The board members shall elect officers and adopt such bylaws, rules and regulations for their own guidance and for the government of the regional free library system as may be expedient. They shall have control of the expenditure of all moneys credited to the regional free library fund. The regional board shall have the right to accept donations and bequests of money, personal property, or real estate for the establishment and maintenance of such regional free library system or endowments for same.

§42.1-40. Powers of regional library board. The regional library board shall have authority to execute contracts with the State Library Board, with the library boards of the respective jurisdictions, and any and all other agencies for the purpose of administering a public library service within the region, including contracts concerning allocation and §42.1-41. Funds and expenses of regional library system. The expenses of the regional library system shall be apportioned among the participating political subdivisions on such basis as shall be agreed upon in the contract. The treasurer of the regional library board shall have the custody of the funds of the regional free library system; and the treasurers or other financial officers of the participating jurisdictions shall transfer quarterly to him all moneys collected or appropriated for this purpose in their respective jurisdictions. Such funds shall be expended only for the library service for which the county or city contracted and for no other purpose. The regional library board shall furnish a detailed report of receipts and disbursements of all funds at the regular meeting of the governing body of every participating jurisdiction after the close of the state’s fiscal year. It shall make a similar report to the Library of Virginia. The treasurer of the board shall be bonded for an amount to be determined by the board. The board may authorize the treasurer to pay bond premiums from state aid library funds.

§42.1-42. Withdrawal from regional library system. No county or city participating in a regional library system shall withdraw therefrom without two years’ notice to the other participating counties and cities without the consent of such other participating political subdivisions.

§42.1-43. Appropriation for free library or library service conducted by company, society or organization. The governing body of any county, city or town in which no free public library system as provided in this chapter shall have been established, may, in its discretion, appropriate such sums of money as to it seems proper for the support and maintenance of any free library or library service operated and conducted in such county, city or town by a company, society or association organized under the provisions of 13.1-801 through 13.1-980.

§42.1-44. Cooperative library system for Henrico and Chesterfield Counties and City of Richmond. Notwithstanding the repeal of Title 42 of the Code of Virginia, 42-12.1 to 42-12.5 of Chapter 2.1 of former Title 42 are continued in effect and are incorporated into this title by reference.

§42.1-45. Transfer of properties, etc. of public free library to governing body of city in which it is situated. The board of directors or trustees of any public free library established pursuant to Chapter 13, Acts of Assembly, 1924, approved February 13, 1924, may lease, convey, or transfer any interest to its properties, real or personal, to the governing body of the political subdivision in which such library be situated in order that such library may become a part of the public library system of such city, subject to such restrictions and conditions as may be agreed to by such board of directors or trustees and such governing body.

LAWS GOVERNING GRANTS-IN-AID TO PUBLIC LIBRARIES

§42.1-46. Library policy of the Commonwealth. It is hereby declared to be the policy of the Commonwealth, as a part of its provision for public education, to promote the establishment and development of public library service throughout its various political subdivisions.

§42.1-47. Grants for development of library service. In order to provide State aid in the development of public library service throughout the State, the Library Board, in this chapter sometimes called the Board, shall grant from such appropriations as are made for this purpose funds to provide library service.

§42.1-48. Grants to improve standards. In order to encourage the maintenance and development of proper standards, including personnel standards, and the combination of libraries or library systems into larger and more economical units of service, grants of state aid from funds available shall be made by the Board to any free public library or library system which qualifies under the standards set by the Board. The grants to each qualifying library or system in each fiscal year shall be as follows:

(a) Forty cents of state aid for every dollar expended, or to be expended, exclusive of state and federal aid, by the political subdivision or subdivisions operating or participating in the library or system. The grant to any county or city shall not exceed $250,000;

(b) A per capita grant based on the population of the area served and the number of participating counties or cities: Thirty cents per capita for the first 600,000 persons to a library or system serving one city or county, and an additional ten cents per capita for the first 600,000 persons for each additional city or county served. Libraries or systems serving a population in excess of 600,000 shall receive ten cents per capita for the excess; and

(c) A grant of ten dollars per square mile of area served to every library or library system, and an additional grant of twenty dollars per square mile of area served to every library system serving more than one city or county.

The Board may establish procedures for the review and timely adjustment of such grants when the political subdivision or subdivisions operating such library or library system are affected by annexation.

§42.1-49. Grants to municipal libraries. Every qualifying municipal library serving an area containing less than 5,000 population shall receive its proper share, but not less than $400.

§42.1-50. Limitation of grants; proration of funds. The total amount of grants under 42.1-48 and 42.1-49 shall not exceed the amount expended, exclusive of state and federal aid, by the political subdivision or subdivisions operating the library. If the state appropriations provided for grants under 42.1-48 and 42.1-49 are not sufficient to meet.
approved applications, the Library Board shall prorate the available funds in such manner that each application shall receive its proportionate share of each type of grant. Applications must be received prior to June one of each calendar year.

§42.1-51. Obligations of libraries and systems receiving aid. The obligations of the various library systems and libraries receiving state aid, shall consist of establishing and maintaining an organization as approved by the Board, provided that personnel standards of such library systems and libraries shall conform to the provisions of 42.1-15.1. All books and bookmobiles purchased with state aid funds shall, if the Board so determines, become the property of the Library of Virginia in the case of any library system or library which does not meet its obligations as determined by the Board.

§42.1-52. Standards of eligibility for aid; reports on operation of libraries; supervision of services. The Board shall establish standards under which library systems and libraries shall be eligible for state aid and may require reports on the operation of all libraries receiving state aid.

As long as funds are available, grants shall be made to the various libraries, library systems or contracting libraries applying for state aid in the order in which they meet the standards established by the Board.

In the event that any library meets the standards of the State Library Board but is unable to conform to 42.1-15 relating to the employment of qualified librarians, the Library Board may, under a contractual agreement with such library, provide professional supervision of its services and may grant state aid funds to it in reduced amounts under a uniform plan to be adopted by the State Library Board.

§42.1-54. Procedure for purchase of books, materials and equipment and payment on salaries. All proposals for books, materials and equipment to be purchased with state aid funds and all proposals for aid in the payment of salaries of certified librarians shall be submitted for approval to the Library of Virginia by the libraries, library systems or contracting libraries applying for state aid, in form prescribed by the Board, and those approved may be ordered by the libraries, library systems or contracting libraries. Payments and disbursements from the funds appropriated for this purpose shall be made by the State Treasurer upon the approval of the duly authorized representative of the Board, to the libraries, library systems or contracting libraries within thirty days of the beginning of each quarter.

§42.1-55. Free service available to all. The service of books in library systems and libraries receiving state aid shall be free and shall be made available to all persons living in the county, region, or municipality.

§42.1-56 Meaning of term “books.” The term “books” as used in this chapter may be interpreted in the discretion of the Board to mean books, magazines, newspapers, appropriate audiovisual materials and other printed matter.
§42.1-57. Authority of Library Board to accept and distribute federal funds. The Library Board is empowered, subject to approval of the Governor, to accept grants of federal funds for libraries and to allocate such funds to libraries under any plan approved by the Board and the appropriate federal authorities. Such allocations shall not be subject to the restrictions of this chapter.

§42.1-58. Agreements providing for expenditure of federal and matching funds. The Library Board and the cities and counties of the Commonwealth are authorized to enter into agreements providing for the supervision of the expenditure of federal funds allocated to such cities and counties and matching funds provided by such political subdivisions. Such agreement shall set forth the standards and conditions with respect to the expenditure of such funds.
REQUIREMENTS WHICH MUST BE MET IN ORDER TO RECEIVE GRANTS-IN-AID (VAC 15-110-10)

In order to qualify for grants-in-aid, all libraries serving more than 5,000 persons must meet the following requirements by July 1, 1992:

1. Be organized under the appropriate section of the Code of Virginia. Not more than one library in a county or regional library system or a municipal government unit may receive a grant.

2. Submit to the State Library Board:

   Charter, resolution, or other legal papers under which they are organized.

   A copy of the by-laws of the board of trustees, a list of trustees, revised as changes occur.

   A five-year plan, adopted by the governing body of the library service in the area (or areas) served. In order to receive continuing grants, this plan must be updated annually.

   A written statement of policy covering such items as: service, personnel, and maintenance of book collections and other materials.

   Statistical and financial reports including audits and statements of progress of the plan as requested.

   A copy of the budget for the expenditure of local funds, not including anticipated state and federal funds. This must be submitted annually.

3. Have local operating expenditures of at least 50 percent of the median statewide local operating expenditures per capita, two-thirds of which must be from taxation or endowment. The median shall be recalculated each biennium. Libraries obtaining aid for the first time or those falling below the 50 percent median must meet the requirement within five years. Libraries which fall below 50 percent of the median in local expenditures per capita must submit a plan to the State Library Board for reaching the minimum requirement. The plan must include a schedule of annual increases in local expenditures of not less than 20 percent of the amount needed to attain local per capita expenditures of 50 percent of the median within five years.
Local operating expenditures from taxation or endowment for any library, or library system, shall not fall below that of the previous year. In cases where the budgets of all the departments of the local government are reduced below those of the previous year, the library’s state grant-in-aid would be reduced. The State Library may require that the amount of such reduction in the library’s total expenditure be subtracted from the library’s eligibility and that the state grant be reduced accordingly. If the library’s budget is reduced and other agencies’ budgets are not, then the library would receive no state grant-in-aid and would be ineligible for one until local expenditures shall have again reached or exceeded the local effort at the time of the last previous grant.

Grants-in-aid shall be used as supplements to local funds.

The amount of any undesignated balance in the local operating budget at the end of the fiscal year which exceeds 10 percent will be subtracted from the grant which is based on that year’s expenditures.

4. Have certified librarians in positions as required by state law. Libraries failing to employ a certified librarian in the position of director will have their state aid grant reduced by 25 percent.

5. Keep open a headquarters library or centrally located branch at least 40 hours a week for a full range of library services. This schedule must include at least three consecutive evening hours and appropriate weekend hours. Evening hours are defined as the hours after 5 p.m.

6. Maintain an up-to-date reference collection and set up procedures for securing materials from other libraries through interlibrary loan.

7. Organize materials for convenient use through shelf arrangement, classification and cataloging, and provide a catalog of its resources.

9. Lend guidance in all outlets to individuals in the use of informational, educational, and recreational materials.
10. Maintain a collection of currently useful materials by annual additions and systematic removal of items no longer useful to maintain the purposes of quality of its resources. Have a telephone and the number of the telephone listed in the local telephone directory.

11. Provide the basic services listed in this section free of charge to the public as required by law.

12. Every regional, county, and city library serving an area of more than 400 square miles, or more than 25,000 persons, must provide some form of extension service acceptable to the board.

13. If the library system has two or more service units, either branches or stations, it must maintain a scheduled, frequent delivery system.

14. The Library Board may, at its discretion, make exceptions for a specified period of time to any single requirement listed above. The exception will be made only if the library can show that a real effort has been made to meet the requirement and that significant progress has been made toward meeting this requirement.

Approved by the State Library Board, March 13, 1991.
REQUIREMENTS WHICH MUST BE MET BY LIBRARIES SERVING A POPULATION OF FEWER THAN 5,000
IN ORDER TO RECEIVE STATE GRANTS-IN-AID (17 VAC 15-90-10)

These requirements must be met by July 1, 1972 when full funding is anticipated.

In order to qualify for state grants-in-aid, all libraries shall meet the following requirements:

1. Be organized under the appropriate section of the Code of Virginia.

2. Submit to the State Library Board:

   Charter, resolutions, or other legal papers under which they are organized.

   A copy of the by-laws of the board of trustees, a list of trustees, revised as changes occur.

   A five-year plan, adopted by the governing body of the library (trustees, or equivalent) for the development of library service in the area (areas) served. In order to receive continuing grants, any revisions in this plan must be submitted annually.

   A written statement of policy covering such items as: service, personnel, and maintenance of book collections and other materials.

   Statistical and financial reports including statements of progress of the plan as requested.

3. All libraries shall meet the following minimum requirements:

   Give at least 20 hours of public service per week.

   Provide adequate staff, with at least one paid employee working 20 hours a week while library is open.

   Have a collection of currently useful books of at least 5,000 volumes.

   Provide a minimum of 1,750 square feet of space.

   Be located on a site which is conveniently situated for service to the greatest number of people in the area.

   Add at least 200 currently useful books per year.
Expend annually at least $3,000.00 per year in local funds, 2/3 of which must be from taxation or endowment. Local operating expenditures for any library, or library system, shall not fall below that of the previous year. The amount of any undesignated balance at the end of the fiscal year which exceeds 10 percent of the library’s total budget will be subtracted from the grant which is based on that year’s expenditures.

Provide an author, subject, and title catalog.

Provide a telephone.

It is strongly recommended that libraries in this category look toward joining larger units of service in order to meet recommended State standards.

Approved by the State Library Board, April 27, 1970.

THE MATERIAL THAT FOLLOWS, THROUGH PAGE 132, IS REPRINTED WITH PERMISSION FROM THE AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.
LIBRARY BILL OF RIGHTS

The American Library Association affirms that all libraries are forums for information and ideas, and that the following basic policies should guide their services.

I. Books and other library resources should be provided for the interest, information, and enlightenment of all people of the community the library serves. Materials should not be excluded because of the origin, background, or views of those contributing to their creation.

II. Libraries should provide materials and information presenting all points of view on current and historical issues. Materials should not be proscribed or removed because of partisan or doctrinal disapproval.

III. Libraries should challenge censorship in the fulfillment of their responsibility to provide information and enlightenment.

IV. Libraries should cooperate with all persons and groups concerned with resisting abridgment of free expression and free access to ideas.

V. A person’s right to use a library should not be denied or abridged because of origin, age, background or views.

VI. Libraries which make exhibit spaces and meeting rooms available to the public they serve should make such facilities available on an equitable basis, regardless of the beliefs or affiliations of individuals or groups requesting their use.

Adopted June 18, 1948.
THE FREEDOM TO READ STATEMENT

The freedom to read is essential to our democracy. It is continuously under attack. Private groups and public authorities in various parts of the country are working to remove or limit access to reading materials, to censor content in schools, to label “controversial” views, to distribute lists of “objectionable” books or authors, and to purge libraries. These actions apparently rise from a view that our national tradition of free expression is no longer valid; that censorship and suppression are needed to counter threats to safety or national security, as well as to avoid the subversion of politics and the corruption of morals. We, as individuals devoted to reading and as librarians and publishers responsible for disseminating ideas, wish to assert the public interest in the preservation of the freedom to read.

Most attempts at suppression rest on a denial of the fundamental premise of democracy: that the ordinary individual, by exercising critical judgment, will select the good and reject the bad. We trust Americans to recognize propaganda and misinformation, and to make their own decisions about what they read and believe. We do not believe they are prepared to sacrifice their heritage of a free press in order to be “protected” against what others think may be bad for them. We believe they still favor free enterprise in ideas and expression.

These efforts at suppression are related to a larger pattern of pressures being brought against education, the press, art and images, films, broadcast media, and the Internet. The problem is not only one of actual censorship. The shadow of fear cast by these pressures leads, we suspect, to an even larger voluntary curtailment of expression by those who seek to avoid controversy or unwelcome scrutiny by government officials.

Such pressure toward conformity is perhaps natural to a time of accelerated change. And yet suppression is never more dangerous than in such a time of social tension. Freedom has given the United States the elasticity to endure strain. Freedom keeps open the path of novel and creative solutions, and enables change to come by choice. Every silencing of a heresy, every enforcement of an orthodoxy, diminishes the toughness and resilience of our society and leaves it the less able to deal with controversy and difference.

Now as always in our history, reading is among our greatest freedoms. The freedom to read and write is almost the only means for making generally available ideas or manners of expression that can initially command only a small audience. The written word is the natural medium for the new idea and the untried voice from which come the original contributions to social growth. It is essential to the extended discussion that serious thought requires, and to the accumulation of knowledge and ideas into organized collections.

We believe that free communication is essential to the preservation of a free society and a creative culture. We believe that these pressures toward conformity present the danger of limiting the range and variety of inquiry and expression on which our democracy and our culture depend. We believe that every American community must jealously guard the freedom to publish and to circulate, in order to preserve its own freedom to read. We believe that publishers and librarians have a profound responsibility to give validity to that freedom to read by making it possible for the readers to choose freely from a variety of offerings. The freedom to read is guaranteed by the Constitution. Those with faith in free people will stand firm on these constitutional guarantees of essential rights and will exercise the responsibilities that accompany these rights.

We therefore affirm these propositions:

1. It is in the public interest for publishers and librarians to make available the widest diversity of views and expressions, including those that are unorthodox, unpopular, or considered dangerous by the majority.

   Creative thought is by definition new, and what is new is different. The bearer of every new thought is a rebel until that idea is refined and tested. Totalitarian systems attempt to maintain themselves in power by the ruthless suppression of any concept that challenges the established orthodoxy. The power of a democratic system to adapt to change is vastly strengthened by the freedom of its citizens to choose widely from among conflicting opinions offered freely to them. To stifle every nonconformist idea at birth would mark the end of the democratic process. Furthermore, only through the constant activity of weighing and selecting can the democratic mind attain the strength demanded by times like these. We need to know not only what we believe but why we believe it.

2. Publishers, librarians, and booksellers do not need to endorse every idea or presentation they make available. It would conflict with the public interest for them to establish their own political, moral, or aesthetic views as a standard for determining what should be published or circulated.

   Publishers and librarians serve the educational process by helping to make available knowledge and ideas required for the growth of the mind and the increase of learning. They do not foster education by imposing as mentors the patterns of their own thought. The people should have the freedom to read and consider a broader range of ideas than those that may be held by any single librarian or publisher or government or church. It is wrong that what one can read should be confined to what another thinks proper.

3. It is contrary to the public interest for publishers or librarians to bar access to writings on the basis of the personal history or political affiliations of the author.

   No art or literature can flourish if it is to be measured by the political views or private lives of its creators. No society of free people can flourish that draws up lists of writers to whom it will not listen, whatever they may have to say.
4. There is no place in our society for efforts to coerce the taste of others, to confine adults to the reading matter deemed suitable for adolescents, or to inhibit the efforts of writers to achieve artistic expression.

To some, much of modern expression is shocking. But is not much of life itself shocking? We cut off literature at the source if we prevent writers from dealing with the stuff of life. Parents and teachers have a responsibility to prepare the young to meet the diversity of experiences in life to which they will be exposed, as they have a responsibility to help them learn to think critically for themselves. These are affirmative responsibilities, not to be discharged simply by preventing them from reading works for which they are not yet prepared. In these matters values differ, and values cannot be legislated; nor can machinery be devised that will suit the demands of one group without limiting the freedom of others.

5. It is not in the public interest to force a reader to accept the prejudgment of a label characterizing any expression or its author as subversive or dangerous.

The ideal of labeling presupposes the existence of individuals or groups with wisdom to determine by authority what is good or bad for others. It presupposes that individuals must be directed in making up their minds about the ideas they examine. But Americans do not need others to do their thinking for them.

6. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians, as guardians of the people's freedom to read, to contest encroachments upon that freedom by individuals or groups seeking to impose their own standards or tastes upon the community at large, and by the government whenever it seeks to reduce or deny public access to public information.

It is inevitable in the give and take of the democratic process that the political, the moral, or the aesthetic concepts of an individual or group will occasionally collide with those of another individual or group. In a free society individuals are free to determine for themselves what they wish to read, and each group is free to determine what it will recommend to its freely associated members. But no group has the right to take the law into its own hands, and to impose its own concept of politics or morality upon other members of a democratic society. Freedom is no freedom if it is accorded only to the accepted and the inoffensive. Further, democratic societies are more safe, free, and creative when the free flow of public information is not restricted by governmental prerogative or self-censorship.

7. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians to give full meaning to the freedom to read by providing books that enrich the quality and diversity of thought and expression. By the exercise of this affirmative responsibility, they can demonstrate that the answer to a "bad" book is a good one, the answer to a "bad" idea is a good one.
The freedom to read is of little consequence when the reader cannot obtain matter fit for that reader’s purpose. What is needed is not only the absence of restraint, but the positive provision of opportunity for the people to read the best that has been thought and said. Books are the major channel by which the intellectual inheritance is handed down, and the principal means of its testing and growth. The defense of the freedom to read requires of all publishers and librarians the utmost of their faculties, and deserves of all Americans the fullest of their support.

We state these propositions neither lightly nor as easy generalizations. We here stake out a lofty claim for the value of the written word. We do so because we believe that it is possessed of enormous variety and usefulness, worthy of cherishing and keeping free. We realize that the application of these propositions may mean the dissemination of ideas and manners of expression that are repugnant to many persons. We do not state these propositions in the comfortable belief that what people read is unimportant. We believe rather that what people read is deeply important; that ideas can be dangerous; but that the suppression of ideas is fatal to a democratic society. Freedom itself is a dangerous way of life, but it is ours.

ACCESS FOR CHILDREN AND YOUNG ADULTS TO NONPRINT MATERIALS

AN INTERPRETATION OF THE LIBRARY BILL OF RIGHTS

Library collections of nonprint materials raise a number of intellectual freedom issues, especially regarding minors. Article V of the Library Bill of Rights states, “A person’s right to use a library should not be denied or abridged because of origin, age, background, or views.”

The American Library Association’s principles protect minors’ access to sound, images, data, games, software, and other content in all formats such as tapes, CDs, DVDs, music CDs, computer games, software, databases, and other emerging technologies. ALA’s Free Access to Libraries for Minors: An Interpretation of the Library Bill of Rights states:

... The “right to use a library” includes free access to, and unrestricted use of, all the services, materials, and facilities the library has to offer. Every restriction on access to, and use of, library resources, based solely on the chronological age, educational level, literacy skills, or legal emancipation of users violates Article V.

... [P]arents—and only parents—have the right and responsibility to restrict access of their children—and only their children—to library resources. Parents who do not want their children to have access to certain library services, materials, or facilities should so advise their children. Librarians and library governing bodies cannot assume the role of parents or the functions of parental authority in the private relationship between parent and child.

Lack of access to information can be harmful to minors. Librarians and library governing bodies have a public and professional obligation to ensure that all members of the community they serve have free, equal, and equitable access to the entire range of library resources regardless of content, approach, format, or amount of detail. This principle of library service applies equally to all users, minors as well as adults. Librarians and library governing bodies must uphold this principle in order to provide adequate and effective service to minors.

Policies that set minimum age limits for access to any nonprint materials or information technology, with or without parental permission, abridge library use for minors. Age limits based on the cost of the materials are also unacceptable. Librarians, when dealing with minors, should apply the same standards to circulation of nonprint materials as are applied to books and other print materials except when directly and specifically prohibited by law.
Recognizing that librarians cannot act in loco parentis, ALA acknowledges and supports the exercise by parents of their responsibility to guide their own children’s reading and viewing. Libraries should provide published reviews and/or reference works that contain information about the content, subject matter, and recommended audiences for nonprint materials. These resources will assist parents in guiding their children without implicating the library in censorship.

In some cases, commercial content ratings, such as the Motion Picture Association of America (MPAA) movie ratings, might appear on the packaging or promotional materials provided by producers or distributors. However, marking out or removing this information from materials or packaging constitutes expurgation or censorship.

MPAA movie ratings, Entertainment Software Rating Board (ESRB) game ratings, and other rating services are private advisory codes and have no legal standing (Expurgation of Library Materials). For the library to add ratings to nonprint materials if they are not already there is unacceptable. It is also unacceptable to post a list of such ratings with a collection or to use them in circulation policies or other procedures. These uses constitute labeling, “an attempt to prejudice attitudes” (Labels and Rating Systems), and are forms of censorship. The application of locally generated ratings schemes intended to provide content warnings to library users is also inconsistent with the Library Bill of Rights.

The interests of young people, like those of adults, are not limited by subject, theme, or level of sophistication. Librarians have a responsibility to ensure young people’s access to materials and services that reflect diversity of content and format sufficient to meet their needs.

ACCESS TO ELECTRONIC INFORMATION, SERVICES, AND NETWORKS

Introduction

Freedom of expression is an inalienable human right and the foundation for self-government. Freedom of expression encompasses the freedom of speech and the corollary right to receive information. Libraries and librarians protect and promote these rights by selecting, producing, providing access to, identifying, retrieving, organizing, providing instruction in the use of, and preserving recorded expression regardless of the format or technology.

The American Library Association expresses these basic principles of librarianship in its Code of Ethics and in the Library Bill of Rights and its Interpretations. These serve to guide librarians and library governing bodies in addressing issues of intellectual freedom that arise when the library provides access to electronic information, services, and networks.

Libraries empower users by providing access to the broadest range of information. Electronic resources, including information available via the Internet, allow libraries to fulfill this responsibility better than ever before.

Issues arising from digital generation, distribution, and retrieval of information need to be approached and regularly reviewed from a context of constitutional principles and ALA policies so that fundamental and traditional tenets of librarianship are not swept away.

Electronic information flows across boundaries and barriers despite attempts by individuals, governments, and private entities to channel or control it. Even so, many people lack access or capability to use electronic information effectively.

In making decisions about how to offer access to electronic information, each library should consider its mission, goals, objectives, cooperative agreements, and the needs of the entire community it serves.

The Rights of Users

All library system and network policies, procedures, or regulations relating to electronic information and services should be scrutinized for potential violation of user rights.

User policies should be developed according to the policies and guidelines established by the American Library Association, including Guidelines for the Development and Implementation of Policies, Regulations and Procedures Affecting Access to Library Materials, Services and Facilities.
Users' access should not be restricted or denied for expressing or receiving constitutionally protected speech. If access is restricted or denied for behavioral or other reasons, users should be provided due process, including, but not limited to, formal notice and a means of appeal. Information retrieved or utilized electronically is constitutionally protected unless determined otherwise by a court of law with appropriate jurisdiction. These rights extend to minors as well as adults (Free Access to Libraries for Minors; Access to Resources and Services in the School Library Media Program; Access for Children and Young People to Videotapes and Other Nonprint Formats).

Libraries should use technology to enhance, not deny, access to information. Users have the right to be free of unreasonable limitations or conditions set by libraries, librarians, system administrators, vendors, network service providers, or others. Contracts, agreements, and licenses entered into by libraries on behalf of their users should not violate this right. Libraries should provide library users the training and assistance necessary to find, evaluate, and use information effectively.

Users have both the right of confidentiality and the right of privacy. The library should uphold these rights by policy, procedure, and practice in accordance with Privacy: An Interpretation of the Library Bill of Rights.

Equity of Access

The Internet provides expanding opportunities for everyone to participate in the information society, but too many individuals face serious barriers to access. Libraries play a critical role in bridging information access gaps for these individuals. Libraries also ensure that the public can find content of interest and learn the necessary skills to use information successfully.

Electronic information, services, and networks provided directly or indirectly by the library should be equally, readily, and equitably accessible to all library users. American Library Association policies oppose the charging of user fees for the provision of information services by libraries that receive their major support from public funds (Free Access to Information; Economic Barriers to Information Access; Minority Concerns Policy Objectives; Library Services for the Poor Policy Objectives). All libraries should develop policies concerning access to electronic information that are consistent with ALA’s policy statements, including Economic Barriers to Information Access: An Interpretation of the Library Bill of Rights, Guidelines for the Development and Implementation of Policies, Regulations and Procedures Affecting Access to Library Materials, Services and Facilities, and Resolution on Access to the Use of Libraries and Information by Individuals with Physical or Mental Impairment.
Information Resources and Access

Providing connections to global information, services, and networks is not the same as selecting and purchasing materials for a library collection. Determining the accuracy or authenticity of electronic information may present special problems. Some information accessed electronically may not meet a library’s selection or collection development policy. It is, therefore, left to each user to determine what is appropriate. Parents and legal guardians who are concerned about their children’s use of electronic resources should provide guidance to their own children.

Libraries, acting within their mission and objectives, must support access to information on all subjects that serve the needs or interests of each user, regardless of the user’s age or the content of the material. In order to preserve the cultural record and to prevent the loss of information, libraries may need to expand their selection or collection development policies to ensure preservation, in appropriate formats, of information obtained electronically. Libraries have an obligation to provide access to government information available in electronic format.

Libraries and librarians should not deny or limit access to electronic information because of its allegedly controversial content or because of the librarians personal beliefs or fear of confrontation. Furthermore, libraries and librarians should not deny access to electronic information solely on the grounds that it is perceived to lack value.

Publicly funded libraries have a legal obligation to provide access to constitutionally protected information. Federal, state, county, municipal, local, or library governing bodies sometimes require the use of Internet filters or other technological measures that block access to constitutionally protected information, contrary to the Library Bill of Rights (ALA Policy Manual, 53.1.17, Resolution on the Use of Filtering Software in Libraries). If a library uses a technological measure that blocks access to information, it should be set at the least restrictive level in order to minimize the blocking of constitutionally protected speech. Adults retain the right to access all constitutionally protected information and to ask for the technological measure to be disabled in a timely manner. Minors also retain the right to access constitutionally protected information and, at the minimum, have the right to ask the library or librarian to provide access to erroneously blocked information in a timely manner. Libraries and librarians have an obligation to inform users of these rights and to provide the means to exercise these rights.3

Electronic resources provide unprecedented opportunities to expand the scope of information available to users. Libraries and librarians should provide access to information presenting all points of view. The provision of access does not imply sponsorship or endorsement. These principles pertain to electronic resources no less than they do to the more traditional sources of information in libraries (Diversity in Collection Development).

3 “If some libraries do not have the capacity to unblock specific Web sites or to disable the filter or if it is shown that an adult user’s election to view constitutionally protected Internet material is burdened in some other substantial way, that would be the subject for an as-applied challenge, not the facial challenge made in this case.” United States, et al. v. American Library Association, 539 U.S. 194 (2003) (Justice Kennedy, concurring).

CONFIDENTIALITY AND COPING WITH LAW ENFORCEMENT INQUIRIES

GUIDELINES FOR THE LIBRARY AND ITS STAFF

Increased visits to libraries by law enforcement agents, including FBI agents and officers of state, county, and municipal police departments, are raising considerable concern among the public and the library community. These visits are not only a result of the increased surveillance and investigation prompted by the events of September 11, 2001, and the subsequent passage of the USA Patriot Act, but also as a result of law enforcement officers investigating computer crimes, including e-mail threats and possible violations of the laws addressing online obscenity and child pornography.

These guidelines, developed to assist libraries and library staff in dealing with law enforcement inquiries, rely upon the ALA’s

- Privacy: An Interpretation of the Library Bill of Rights
- Questions and Answers on Privacy and Confidentiality
- Policy on Confidentiality of Library Records
- Suggested Procedures for Implementing Policy on Confidentiality of Library Records
- Policy Concerning Confidentiality of Personally Identifiable Information about Library Users
- Code of Ethics

See also Privacy and Confidentiality, Intellectual Freedom Issues, and the Privacy Tool Kit on OIF’s Web site.

Fundamental Principles

Librarians’ professional ethics require that personally identifiable information about library users be kept confidential. This principle is reflected in Article III of the Code of Ethics, which states that “[l]ibrarians] protect each library user’s right to privacy and confidentiality with respect to information sought or received, and resources consulted, borrowed, acquired, or transmitted.” Privacy: An Interpretation of the Library Bill of Rights, notes that “[p]rotecting user privacy and confidentiality has long been an integral part of the mission of libraries.”

Currently, 48 states and the District of Columbia have laws protecting the confidentiality of library records, and the Attorneys General of the remaining two states, Hawaii and Kentucky, have ruled that library records are confidential and may not be disclosed under the laws governing open records. Confidential library records should not be released or made available in any format to a federal agent, law enforcement officer, or other person unless a court order in proper form has been entered by a court of competent jurisdiction after a showing of good cause by the law enforcement agency or person seeking the records.
General Guidelines

Confidentiality of library records is a basic principle of librarianship. As a matter of policy or procedure, the library administrator should ensure that:

- The library staff and governing board are familiar with the ALA Policy on Confidentiality of Library Records, the Policy Concerning Confidentiality of Personally Identifiable Information about Library Users, and other ALA documents on users’ privacy and confidentiality.

- The library staff and governing board are familiar with their state’s library confidentiality statute or attorney general’s opinion.

- The library adopts a policy on users’ privacy and confidentiality. Such policies should inform users about their expectation of privacy and how the library handles their confidential information.

- The library adopts staff policies that inform the staff and board about the procedures to follow if the library is served with judicial process (search warrants or subpoenas) seeking library records or if law enforcement agents conduct inquiries in the library.

- The library staff is familiar with the library’s policy on confidentiality and its procedures for handling court orders and law enforcement inquiries.

Library Procedures Affect Confidentiality

Law enforcement visits aside, be aware that library operating procedures have an impact on confidentiality. The following recommendations are suggestions to bring library procedures into compliance with most state confidentiality statutes, ALA policies on confidentiality and its Code of Ethics:

- Avoid creating unnecessary records. Only record a user’s personally identifiable information when necessary for the efficient operation of the library.

- Avoid retaining records that are not needed for efficient operation of the library. Check with your local governing body to learn if there are laws or policies addressing record retention and in conformity with these laws or policies, develop policies on the length of time necessary to retain a record. Ensure that all kinds and types of records are covered by the policy, including data-related logs, digital records, and system backups.
Once record retention policies are in place, ensure that records are destroyed or archived on schedule. A library cannot destroy records after it receives notice from law enforcement agents that the records may be subject to judicial process.

Be aware of library practices and procedures that place information on public view. Some examples are the use of postcards for overdue notices or requested materials; staff terminals placed so that the screens can be read by the public; sign-in sheets to use computers or other devices; and the provision of titles of reserve requests or interlibrary loans provided over the telephone to users’ family members or answering machines.

Remember that there is no affirmative duty to collect or retain information about library patrons on behalf of law enforcement.

Recommended Procedures for Law Enforcement Visits

Before any visit:

- Designate the person or persons who will be responsible for handling law enforcement requests. In most circumstances, it should be the library director, and, if available, the library’s legal counsel.

- Train all library staff, including volunteers, on the library’s procedure for handling law enforcement requests. They should understand that it is lawful to refer the agent or officer to an administrator in charge of the library, and that they do not need to respond immediately to any request.

- Review the library’s confidentiality policy and state confidentiality law with library counsel. Communicate those policies and the requirements of the law to both staff and volunteer workers in the library.

- A court order may require the removal of a computer workstation or other computer storage device from the library. Have plans in place to address service interruptions and any necessary backups for equipment and software.

During the visit:

- Staff should immediately ask for identification if they are approached by an agent or law enforcement officer, and then record the information. If possible, verify the information with the local FBI office or the police department. The agent or officer should then be immediately referred to the library director or the designated supervisor.
• The director or supervisor should meet with the agent with another colleague in attendance. If possible, one person should take notes if a record of the encounter is needed in the future.

• If the agent or officer does not have a court order compelling the production of records, the library director should explain the library’s confidentiality policy and the state’s confidentiality law, and inform the agent or officer that users’ records are not available except when a proper court order in good form has been presented to the library.

• Without a court order, neither the FBI nor local law enforcement has authority to compel cooperation with an investigation or require answers to questions, other than the name and address of the person speaking to the agent or officer. If the agent or officer persists, or makes an appeal to patriotism, the library director should explain that, as good citizens, the library staff will not respond to informal requests for confidential information, in conformity with professional ethics, First Amendment freedoms, and state law.

• If the agent or officer presents a search warrant or other judicial process, the library director should immediately call the library’s counsel and ask for assistance.

If the judicial process is in the form of a subpoena:

• Remember that a subpoena does not require an immediate response from the library. Thank the officer serving the subpoena and inform him or her that the library will respond to the subpoena within the time allotted and in conformity with the law. Immediately refer the subpoena to the library’s legal counsel.

• Counsel should examine the subpoena for any legal defect, including the manner in which it was served on the library, the breadth of its request, its form, or an insufficient showing of good cause made to a court. If a defect exists, counsel will advise on the best method to resist the subpoena.

• Through legal counsel, insist that any defect be cured before records are released and that the subpoena is strictly limited to require release of specifically identified records or documents. If there does not appear to be good cause for the subpoena, or if it seems too broad or intrusive, ask your attorney to file a motion to quash the subpoena in its entirety.

• Require that the agent, officer, or party requesting the information submit a new subpoena in good form and without defects.
If you decide to comply with the subpoena after consulting with legal counsel, review the information that may be produced in response to the subpoena before releasing the information. Follow the subpoena strictly and do not provide any information that is not specifically requested in it.

If disclosure is required, ask the court to enter a protective order (drafted by the library’s counsel) keeping the information confidential and limiting its use to the particular case. Ask that access be restricted to those persons working directly on the case.

If the court order is in the form of a search warrant:

- Unlike a subpoena, a search warrant may be executed immediately. The agent or officer may begin a search of library records as soon as the library is served with the court’s order.

- Ask to have library counsel present before the search begins in order to allow library counsel an opportunity to examine the search warrant and to ensure that the search conforms to the terms of the search warrant.

- If the officer refuses to delay the search, examine the warrant. Ensure that the warrant has been issued by a local or federal court in your state and is current and not expired. If you question the validity of the warrant, call the issuing court to confirm the validity of the warrant.

- The warrant will include information that identifies the premises to be searched and the items or records to be produced under the warrant. Ask that the officer observe the boundaries set by the search warrant.

- Cooperate with the search to ensure that only the records identified in the warrant are produced and that no other users records are viewed or scanned. Staff should be trained not to discuss the warrant with the officer, identify any documents, or to volunteer information without first consulting with the library’s counsel.

- Record and keep an inventory of the records or items seized from the library. If possible, keep the originals and provide the agent with copies (or make copies for the library’s reference).
• While most law enforcement officers will cooperate with a library’s request to allow counsel to examine the warrant, it is possible that an officer will refuse to delay his or her search. Train staff to step aside and not to interfere with the officer in those cases. They should continue their attempt to notify the library director and library counsel, and make every effort to keep a record of the incident.

If the court order is a search warrant issued under the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA) (USA PATRIOT Act amendment):

• The recommendations for a regular search warrant still apply. However, a search warrant issued by a FISA court also contains a “gag order.” That means that no person or institution served with the warrant can disclose that the warrant has been served or that records have been produced pursuant to the warrant.

• The library and its staff must comply with this order. No information can be disclosed to any other party, including the patron whose records are the subject of the search warrant. Note that the FSA gag order permits the person receiving the FISA warrant to inform the library director and those members of the staff who are needed to produce the records.

• The gag order does not change a library’s right to legal representation during the search. The library can still seek legal advice concerning the warrant and request that the library’s legal counsel be present during the actual search and execution of the warrant.

• If the library does not have legal counsel and wishes legal advice, the library can still obtain legal assistance through the Freedom to Read Foundations legal counsel. Simply call the Office for Intellectual Freedom ((800) 545-2433, ext. 4223) and inform the staff that you need legal advice. OIF staff will ensure that an attorney returns your call. You do not have to and should not inform OIF staff of the existence of the warrant.

After the visit:

• Review the subpoena or search warrant with library counsel to ensure that the library complies with any remaining requirements, including restrictions on sharing information with others.

• Review library policies and staff response and make any necessary revisions in light of experience.
• Be prepared to communicate with the news media. Designate one person who will be responsible for communicating with the media. Develop a public information statement detailing the principles upholding library confidentiality that includes an explanation of the chilling effect on First Amendment rights caused by public access to users' personally identifiable information, and share it with your staff, so they are able to communicate the library’s message to their acquaintances and neighbors in the community.

• If possible, notify the ALA about your experience by calling the Office for Intellectual Freedom at (800) 545-2433, extension 4223.
FREE ACCESS TO LIBRARIES FOR MINORS

AN INTERPRETATION OF THE LIBRARY BILL OF RIGHTS

Library policies and procedures which effectively deny minors equal access to all library resources available to other users violate the Library Bill of Rights. The American Library Association opposes all attempts to restrict access to library services, materials, and facilities based on the age of library users.

Article V of the Library Bill of Rights states, “A person’s right to use a library should not be denied or abridged because of origin, age, background, or views.” The “right to use a library” includes free access to, and unrestricted use of, all of the services, materials, and facilities the library has to offer. Every restriction on access to, and use of, the library resources, based solely on the chronological age, educational level, or legal emancipation of users violates Article V.

Libraries are charged with the mission of developing resources to meet the diverse information needs and interests of the communities they serve. Services, materials, and facilities which fulfill the needs and interests of library users at different stages in their personal development are a necessary part of library resources. The needs and interests of each library user, and resources appropriate to meet those needs and interests, must be determined on an individual basis. Librarians cannot predict what resources will best fulfill the needs and interests of any individual user based on a single criterion such as chronological age, level of education, or legal emancipation.

Libraries should not limit the selection and development of library resources simply because minors will have access to them. Institutional self-censorship diminishes the credibility of the library in the community, and restricts access for all library users.

Children and young adults unquestionably possess First Amendment rights, including the right to receive information in the library. Constitutionally protected speech cannot be suppressed solely to protect children or young adults from ideas or images a legislative body believes to be unsuitable for them. Librarians and governing bodies should not resort to age restrictions in an effort to avoid actual or anticipated objections, because only a court of law can determine whether material is not constitutionally protected.

The mission, goals, and objectives of libraries cannot authorize library governing bodies to assume, abrogate, or overrule the rights and responsibilities of parents. As Libraries: An American Value states, “We affirm the responsibility and the right of all parents and guardians to guide their own children’s use of the library and its resources and services.” Librarians and governing bodies should maintain that parents—and only parents—have the right and the responsibility to restrict the access of their children—and only their children—to library resources. Parents who do not want their children to have access to certain library services, materials, or facilities, should so advise their children. Librarians and library governing bodies cannot assume the role of parents or the functions of parental authority in the private relationship between parent and child.

Lack of access to information can be harmful to minors. Librarians and library governing bodies have a public and professional obligation to ensure that all members of the community they serve have free, equal, and equitable access to the entire range of library resources regardless of content, approach, format, or amount of detail. This principle of library service applies equally to all users, minors as well as adults. Librarians and library governing bodies must uphold this principle in order to provide adequate and effective service to minors.

1 See Erznoznik v. City of Jacksonville, 422 U. S. 205 (1975) – “Speech that is neither obscene as to youths nor subject to some other legitimate proscription cannot be suppressed solely to protect the young from ideas or images that a legislative body thinks unsuitable [422 U. S. 205, 214] for them. In most circumstances, the values protected by the First Amendment are no less applicable when government seeks to control the flow of information to minors. See Tinker v. Des Moines School Dist., supra. Cf. West Virginia Bd. of Ed. v. Barnette, 319 U. S. 624 (1943).”

CHALLENGED MATERIALS

AN INTERPRETATION OF THE LIBRARY BILL OF RIGHTS

The American Library Association declares as a matter of firm principle that it is the responsibility of every library to have a clearly defined materials selection policy in written form which reflects the Library Bill of Rights, and which is approved by the appropriate governing authority.

Challenged materials which meet the criteria for selection in the materials selection policy of the library should not be removed under any legal or extra-legal pressure. The Library Bill of Rights states in Article 1 that “Materials should not be excluded because of the origin, background, or views of those contributing to their creation,” and in Article 2, that “Materials should not be proscribed or removed because of partisan or doctrinal disapproval.” Freedom of expression is protected by the Constitution of the United States, but constitutionally protected expression is often separated from unprotected expression only by a dim and uncertain line. The Constitution requires a procedure designed to focus searchingly on challenged expression before it can be suppressed. An adversary hearing is a part of this procedure.

Therefore, any attempt, be it legal or extra-legal, to regulate or suppress materials in libraries must be closely scrutinized to the end that protected expression is not abridged.

CONTACTING YOUR LEGISLATOR

Personal visits. Face to face discussion is the most effective means of communication. A meeting is more easily arranged early in a session, before pressures build up. Be sure you have a firm appointment.

Take along others—library director, trustee, Friend, citizen activist, representative of a community organization. Keep the delegation small enough for any easy exchange of viewpoints with the legislator. Leave your card and any written information you have prepared. Follow up with a letter of appreciation and include any additional information suggested by the visit.

Telephone calls. Once you have become acquainted with your legislator, telephone calls are appropriate. Make them sparingly because the legislator’s time is heavily occupied. Regular contact with the legislator’s staff is desirable.

Telephone to ask support before a hearing or floor vote or to convey urgent local concern. Judge how far to push by the reaction.

Letters. These are the chief fuel which powers any legislative vehicle. They are read. They elicit response. They represent votes.

Letters may be formal or informal, typewritten or handwritten. They should be composed by you, giving your reasons for your position (and giving the legislator reasons to support it). If you are asking support for a particular bill, cite it by number and author, and give its title or subject matter.

Telegrams, mail grams, and fax. These are fast, easy ways to communicate with legislators when the need for action is critical.

FIVE BASIC RULES FOR EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION

1. Be Brief. A legislator’s time is limited. So is yours.
2. Be Appreciative. Acknowledge past support and convey thanks for current action.
3. Be Specific. Refer to local library needs.
4. Be Informative. Give reasons why a measure should be supported.
5. Be Courteous. Ask; do not demand or threaten. Be positive but polite.

WRITING TO LEGISLATORS

HELPFUL HINTS

1. Keep the letter short, rarely more than one page. Type if you can; otherwise, write clearly.

2. Write it in your own words and include your own thoughts.

3. Cover only one issue; save other issues for later letters.

4. Show your familiarity with the subject and with the current status of the legislation (mention the bill number if possible.) This will indicate that you are serious about the issue, unlike the casual, uninformed correspondents who produce the bulk of constituent mail.

5. Be specific as to what you want your representative to do.

6. Give reasons for your position. Cite your own experience and findings if possible. If the bill has a local impact, indicate that fact so that your representative realizes that the bill has a direct effect on his/her district.

7. Ask your representative a direct question about his/her own position on the bill. You want to receive a clear answer, not a form letter. If you are requesting an appointment, give alternate times if possible, and ask for a reply.

8. Don’t mention your membership in any organization unless it is directly related to an experience you are describing. The individual citizen’s letter is what counts, not the letter choreographed and inspired by an organization.

9. If you can, mention your legislator’s vote on a recent issue to show your awareness of his/her record.

10. In general, be helpful rather than threatening. You can best show your genuine concern for the issue by offering to provide further information on the subject. (After all, information management is our business.)

11. When the legislature is in session, address all letters to your representatives in Washington or the state capitol. At other times, write them in care of their home addresses, if available.

12. Finally, remember: Any letter is better than no letter! Postcards are second best.

ELEVEN POINTS TO EFFECTIVE LOBBYING

1. Make an appointment to visit your legislator.
2. Identify yourself and/or the organization you represent.
3. Make sure you inform the legislator that you are a registered voter in his/her district, if applicable.
5. Get your point across in the fewest possible words.
6. Don’t argue, name call, or threaten.
7. Give the legislator a chance to express his/her point of view and be a good listener.
8. Don’t be afraid to admit ignorance on special points. Say you will find the answer and report back.
9. Even if turned down, leave on a friendly note since you may want to join forces on another issue or get back later on the original issue in question.
10. Give special recognition to the legislators who are known to be on your side, and ask them for advice and help in reaching other legislators.
11. If lobbying with a group, one person should speak on behalf of the group.

ETHICS STATEMENT FOR PUBLIC LIBRARY TRUSTEES

• Trustees in the capacity of trust upon them, shall observe ethical standards with absolute truth, integrity, and honor.

• Trustees must avoid situations in which personal interests might be served or financial benefits gained at the expense of library users, colleagues, or the situation.

• It is incumbent upon any trustee to disqualify himself/ herself immediately whenever the appearance or a conflict of interest exists.

• Trustees must distinguish clearly in their actions and statements between their personal philosophies and attitudes and those of the institution, acknowledging the formal position of the board even if they personally disagree.

• A trustee must respect the confidential nature of library business while being aware of and in compliance with applicable laws governing freedom of information.

• Trustees must be prepared to support to the fullest the efforts of librarians in resisting censorship of library materials by groups or individuals.

• Trustees who accept library board responsibilities are expected to perform all of the functions of library trustees.

GOLDEN RULES FOR BOARD MEMBERS

1. Leave the actual management of the library to the library director. It is the library director's responsibility to select books, employ the staff, and supervise day-to-day operations.

2. After a policy or rule is adopted by the majority vote of the library board, do not criticize or re-voice your opposition publicly.

3. Respect confidential information. Do not divulge information regarding future board actions or plans until such action is officially taken.

4. Observe publicity and information policies of the board and library. Do not give information individually but refer requests to the library director or appropriate representative to interpret policies.

5. Treat staff members and library director in an objective manner. Under no circumstances listen to grievances of staff members or treat individual problems on your own. The library director is in charge of the staff and has administrative control up to the point where a grievance is presented to the library board as a whole.

6. Do not suggest hiring a relative as library employee or two members of the same family.

7. All rules and policies directed to the library director must be approved by a quorum of the board at a regular meeting. Even the chair should abide by this rule.

8. Do not hold board meetings without the library director.

9. Complaints from the public are the library director's responsibility. Continued dissatisfaction and problems should be taken up at the board meeting only if policy revision is necessary or legal ramifications are involved.

10. Assume your full responsibility as a board member. If you are unable to attend meetings regularly and complete work delegated to you, resign so that an active member can be appointed.
