Poetic Principles Program Moving to the Library of Virginia
Contact: Janice M. Hathcock For Immediate Release

Poet Kate Daniels will read from her work, answer questions, and sign books on April 27 as Poetic Principles takes up its new home at the Library of Virginia. Originally a program co-sponsored by New Virginia Review and the VMFA, which was the host of the events, the reading series will now take place at the Library, which has replaced the VMFA as co-sponsor and as host. New Virginia Review's role is unchanged. The program begins at 6 PM and is free and open to the public.

Kate Daniels, a Richmond-born poet and graduate of the University of Virginia, has been awarded the Pushcart Prize, the Crazyhorse Prize for Poetry, and the Louisiana Literature Poetry Prize, as well as the James Dickey Prize. An associate professor of English at Vanderbilt, Daniels was recently named the winner of the 2011 Hanes Award for Poetry by the Fellowship of Southern Writers for her work to date. She is the author of A Walk in Victoria's Secret (2010), Four Testimonies (1998), The Niobe Poems (1988), and The White Wave (1984).

There is free parking for this program in the Library's underground deck, which is accessible from either Eighth or Ninth streets.

About the Library of Virginia

The Library of Virginia (www.lva.virginia.gov), located at 800 E. Broad St. in historic downtown Richmond, holds the world's most extensive collection of material about the Old Dominion and has been a steward of the commonwealth's documentary and printed heritage since 1823. The story of Virginia and Virginians has been told in many ways since 1607. At the Library of Virginia it is told through more than 110 million manuscripts and more than 1.9 million books, serials, bound periodicals, microfilm reels, newspapers and state and federal documents, each an individual tile in the vast and colorful mosaic of Virginia's experience.

About New Virginia Review

New Virginia Review, Inc., founded in Norfolk, Virginia, in 1978, is a state-wide, not for profit, literary arts organization based in Richmond. Its mission is the cultivation and development of informed and passionate audiences for literature through publication, education, and promotion. For twenty-five years, New Virginia Review has published new writers and sought ways for literature to reach new readers. We are Virginia's only organization devoted solely to serving serious literature, and we have benefited from the support of Virginius Dabney, Tom Wolfe, Peter Taylor, Charles Wright, Lee Smith, and other noted Virginia writers.
